

DE LEVAL READY FOR TRIAL OF HUN LEADER

Belgian Attorney Whom He Tried to Execute, Awaits Day

Brussels, Aug. 8.—If Baron von Lancken-Walkenitz, civil governor and regarded by many as the New Little Bride With An Old, Old Problem

"Why, what in the world is the matter, Nan?" exclaimed Helen Lawton, as she found her friend sobbing broken-heartedly.

"Oh," cried Nan, "it's that wretched cornstarch pudding. This is the first luncheon I've given since I was married, and I wanted to make everything so nice, and my pudding is thin and lumpy, and—impossible."

"Never mind, dear," soothed Helen. "I'm so glad I came early to help you. We'll have Pudding, and everyone will think you are the smartest little bride in the country."

"The luncheon was a wonderful success, and the dessert—a delicious, rich chocolate blanc mange—enjoyed by everyone."

"It's wonderful!" exclaimed Nan gratefully to Helen. "Tell me all about that marvelous dessert!"

"It's just a pudding," smiled Helen, "an economical, easy-to-make dessert that always turns out right—a firm, smooth mold of rich chocolate, cream, vanilla, rose vanilla, orange, lemon—in fact, your favorite flavor."

"How do you make it?" asked Nan. "Why, her friends, I'll tell you. You have to do it to add sugar and milk—either fresh or condensed—and boil for three minutes. The best part of it is that it has so many uses. Pudding makes delicious pie fillings and rich, velvety custards. As a cake favor, it adds to the richness of the cake."

"And is it expensive?" questioned Nan. "No; a 15c box of Pudding will serve 10 people, and of course you need use only as much of the box at a time as you desire."

"Well," said Nan, "I certainly am glad to know about it. I can assure you that I shall never again be without it."

"Pudding," said her friend, "is my standby. It's a wonderful dessert that tops off any meal."

"You can buy Pudding at your grocers—Adv.

A Quick and Harmless Rheumatism Remedy

That Has Driven All Agony from Hundreds of Despairing Sufferers.

Be fair to yourself, you sufferer from rheumatism, what form. Get from your druggist a package of Rheuma, the guaranteed prescription. Use the entire bottle, and if you don't think it has given you quick and sure relief, say so, and you can have your money back.

Isn't that a fair offer? Can you see any deceit about it? What chance do you take? Absolutely none.

Then get a bottle of Rheuma today. It's a reputable physician's prescription, altogether different from remedies usually prescribed free from narcotics, and perfectly harmless.

Rheuma acts on the kidneys and helps to force the uric acid from the swollen joints and other lodging places. It pleases you in a way that makes you hopeful and happy in a week. It has released from bondage rheumatic sufferers who thought nothing would give relief. It should be as much for you as for them. Kennedy's drug store will supply you and guarantee money back if not satisfied.

Simple Home Remedy Advised For Rose And Hay Fever

Anyone Can Make a Pint For Trifling Sum and Used in Time May Prevent Annual Attack

"No matter how severe your yearly attack be, no matter how distressing or humiliating—its intensity can be reduced to a harmless, mildness."

It is a Kentucky druggist who believes from what he has seen that this simple home made remedy is a most important discovery.

He has seen the most severe and apparently uncurable cases reduced to what might be called a mild cold in twenty-four hours.

In many cases where the patient started treatment a week or ten days before the expected attack the unwelcome yearly visitor failed to appear with anything like its usual intensity.

People who want to try this new treatment can make a pint in a few minutes.

real ruler of Belgium during the German occupation, is brought to trial at the Old Bailey in London, there will be present an accuser whom Lancken tried to send to a firing squad at the Tir National. That man is Gaston de Leval, a Belgian attorney, legal counsellor of the American Legation and special aid to the American Ambassador, Brand Whitlock and Hugh Gibson, secretary of the American legation, during those dark days of the German occupation in Belgium.

There is bitter hatred between Baron Lancken and the Belgian attorney who risked his life in his attempt to save Miss Edith Cavell, the British nurse, from execution. Had it not been for the intervention of Ambassador Whitlock and Mr. Gibson at a firing squad might have entertained de Leval on the morning of October 21, 1915.

Saved by Americans De Leval accompanied Mr. Gibson when, on October 11, the American secretary went to protest to von der Lancken against execution of the death sentence upon Miss Cavell. While the Spanish Marquis, the Marquis of Villalobar, was arguing with von der Lancken who refused to intervene, the German caught sight of de Leval and exclaimed: "There is an enemy subject, what is he doing here?" Marquis Villalobar and Mr. Gibson immediately recognized that Lancken was attempting to create a diversion and requested de Leval to withdraw. The latter refused, saying "I shall live to prosecute you at your trial."

Mr. Gibson at once asked Gibson to dismiss de Leval from the service of the American Legation. Gibson refused.

A few days later Lancken came raging to the American Legation, bearing a copy of an English paper with the story of the execution of Miss Cavell, including Mr. Whitlock's report to the State Department. Gibson's narrative of the events and de Leval's legal conclusions.

"This man de Leval will have to be removed from the American Legation," said Lancken. "Under military law he should be tried by a court-martial. I would recommend that the military penalty be visited upon him."

On October 21, 1915, Lancken returned to the Legation and demanded that de Leval be removed. Mr. Whitlock refused. De Leval went to London where he remained throughout the war.

Lancken's parting sally to de Leval was: "I shall meet you again. De Leval retorted: "I'm sure the pleasure will be all mine." And now they may meet at the Old Bailey.
