

Pat Ryan, Newsboy Delivered His Papers; Got Croix de Guerre

Des Moines, Aug. 8.—Pat Ryan, a newsboy, has returned to his old corner after an absence of many months overseas. He wears the Croix de Guerre.

"How did I get it? Oh, the big chief gave me some papers to deliver to another fellow," he said. The records show that Corporal Ryan, Company B, 168th Infantry, went deliberately through German barracks and machine gun fire to deliver important orders and that his conduct was an inspiration to his comrades.

Ryan also introduced American newspaper enterprise in Paris where in a single day he sold 20,000 copies of the Stars and Stripes. Then he was made Paris circulation manager of the paper. Now Pat is back at his old corner here.

Electric Lights Along the Country Highways

We expect to see electric lights strung along the country highways within a few years. Is that expecting too much? Certainly not. Many of us can remember when we took our lanterns and rubbers to negotiate the home-town streets after nightfall. Now we walk on cement, and with its electric light globes up to midnight home-town is almost as light as day. The cost is not considered. We wanted lights in home-town, and we have them. In the country, too, there will be electric globes swinging at intervals along every pike road. Where water power is available, the current for these lights will cost almost nothing. Where it is convenient, the wires will be circuited from central lighting plants. In many cases the farmer's own private lighting plant will be used to illuminate the roadway along his land. There will be a light at every cross road, at every bridge or culvert and at every turning. Townspeople will co-operate with the farmers in these lights, and will share the cost, not only because the townspeople use the roads, but because they are interested in encouraging the fullest and most convenient travel between country and town. The ancient demand for "more light" is being supplied and the world is becoming a cheerful place.—Farm Life.

DISTANTLY RELATED

Two sons of Erin were talking together. "And so yer name is O'Hare," said one. "Are yer related to Patrick O'Hare?" "Very distantly," said the other. "I was me mother's first child and Patrick was the thirteenth.—Everybody's Magazine.

MARK-DOWN SALE

Where Everything Is Marked Down (Except Collars and Interwoven Hose)

There's been no "let up" in the big crowds which have attended this sale ever since the opening day. You can't criticise the people for wanting to save money and that's certainly what we want everybody who hears about this "Live Store" Sale to do. We have the merchandise they want at lower prices than they can buy the same high quality anywhere else. In fact, our prices are less in many cases than we can replace the same goods wholesale. No wonder manufacturers are begging us not to sacrifice our present stocks; they say we will have trouble on account of the scarcity and serious market conditions to come any way near matching our former retail values.

We brush that advice aside—There's another side of the story to be considered so far as we are concerned and that is, keeping faith with the public. We always keep this store free from barnacles, left-overs, or accumulations of any kind. Therefore, this year everything must move out as heretofore regardless of WHAT WE MUST PAY in the future. We are building a big institution of satisfied, thoroughly pleased customers by selling dependable merchandise at "rock bottom" "small margin" prices, and you are always assured of getting square dealing, honest representation and greater values. Anything you buy at this sale is fully guaranteed—You can make exchange or have your money back, sale time or any time.

To-day and Saturday will overflow this "Live Store" with eager buyers, the crowds are coming from every village and hamlet—Harrisburg is turning out by the thousands.
