

TREATY BACKERS SOUND CALL IN SENATE FIGHT

Administration Forces Alarmed at Ease Shantung Amendment Went Through

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—A rallying call to defeat the efforts of the Treaty opponents went out from the administration leaders in the Senate who are mustering their full strength for the coming battle when the Treaty is reported out of the Foreign Relations Committee.

The case with which the Shantung amendment was carried through has convinced Senator Hitchcock that there is no chance of holding back the Republican forces in the committee and the quicker the Treaty fight is carried into the open the better are the chances of the Democrats.

The Senate as a whole will not endorse the Shantung amendment, it was declared, but nevertheless, favorably by the citizens at large, such action will mean the return of the Treaty and its probable complete defeat, is considered dubious even by some of the radical opponents of the Treaty.

Balk at Treaty Defeat There are many Senators who disapproved heartily of the Shantung award to Japan who are not prepared to go to the length of defeating the Treaty because of it. Reservations to protect American interests are of greater consequence to them than matters of Far Eastern policy.

Contends Cemetery Has No Rights to Close Streets in Burial Grounds

Whether Oak Hill Cemetery Association, Millersburg, has the right to close streets in the cemetery and lay them out in lots was argued to-day before Judge C. V. Henry, specially presiding in the Dauphin county court.

Mr. S. Pick of Millersburg, brought an equity suit against the association, claiming he had purchased a lot at the intersection of two streets in the cemetery, but by recent plans which officials of the association had approved, the street paralleling his ground was closed.

Attorneys for the association claimed that their only obligation to owners of lots in the cemetery was to provide them reasonable access to their ground, which they claimed was done in this case as Mr. Pick's lot fronts on another street. Judge Henry reserved his decision.

ENTERTAINS AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. Henry M. Stine, 21 South Front street, entertained at an informal luncheon, Saturday afternoon, in compliment to Mrs. Craigston, of New York, who is visiting here.

VISITORS AT STONE GLEN A number of people from this city are among the visitors at Stone Glen. They are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray, 113 South Third street; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleck, 1922 Boas street; E. A. Dangerfield, 118 South Third street; William Murray and Miss Anna Murray, 113 South Third street; Miss Mary Ryan, 33 North Seventeenth street; Miss Susau Moltz, 18 Evergreen street.

Do you believe that opportunity knocks but once at each man's door? I do not. On the contrary, we oftentimes hear it knocking but fail to heed its call. As a result we have ourselves to blame when others profit where we lose. Let me give a concrete example. The Doutrich establishment is constantly presenting opportunities to each and every one of us. The end and aim of this live store's existence is to serve the public as best it can. Therefore, it offers us $40 suits for just $21.75. Few firms can emulate its example. Now, are we to be pitied or censured as this slip by? We have no right to ignore the fact that Doutrich's, in a public-spirited way, have one of their utmost towards killing the high price bug-a-bear? Just think the matter over.

MISS SWOPE is in New York attending the openings and purchasing new stock for autumn. On her return she will display many clever, little novelties and alluring bits of fresh and dainty neckwear. Naturally, she will have added to her usual line of exquisite handkerchiefs which need no introduction to the public. Everyone knows just exactly what to expect when one mentions "French Shop handkerchiefs." Indeed, many people feel that nowhere else can they find any to equal those shown by Miss Swope. I have a little friend who, on buying a new frock, immediately hastens to 208 North Third street, and selects three or four to harmonize with her dress. She claims that otherwise her costume is incomplete and I must admit that I agree.

AUTUMN is fast approaching, bringing its share of blushing brides. So to us comes the problem of selecting acceptable wedding gifts. For some unknown reason, the majority of us choose silver, cut glass or the like, forgetting that the young bride always appreciates a beautiful framed picture. She desires above all else to make her new home as attractive as possible, and nothing aids more in accomplishing this end than really good pictures, such as one finds at Saltzberger's Art and Antique Shop, 228 North Second street. Each and every one is a work of art, the hands of the old masters being represented, and the frames harmonize completely, adding to the general effect. The selection is large, including all kinds at all prices, and the main difficulty lies in deciding which of the many to select.

I HAVE a friend—a native of Lucknow, India—who claims that the United States is the one country in the world where the people have never tasted such a thing as really delicious tea. I happened to be seated by his side, several weeks ago, in a big summer hotel, drinking some of the above-mentioned beverage. Bantersingly, he asked me why we Americans spoil perfectly good water by flavoring it so poorly. I didn't say very much at the time, for I knew his criticism was justified, on the whole. But I determined then and there that on his visit to our city, next month, I would go down to the Grand Union Tea Co., 208 North Second street, purchase some of their superior tea, and—well, if he doesn't like the tea he drinks in Harrisburg, I miss my guess!

Figuring Sales by the Year In too many stores sales are figured by the day, week or month rather than by the year. I mean that is the perspective the proprietor has on his business. Each salesperson is expected to turn in a certain volume of business each day or week; if she doesn't meet her quota there's trouble. What's the result of this policy? Frenzied efforts to close sales at any cost—pressure brought to bear on the customer—garments sold which do not fit or which are not appropriate and in general the watchword "Get It Now." How different is my policy. I do not even check my girls' daily or weekly sales. I assume that they know their business. I watch them from the view point of how they serve their customers, not how much they sell. I don't want any customer urged to buy. I want her to sell herself. I am not thinking of sales primarily but first and foremost of a good list of permanent customers. This achieved, sales will take care of themselves. In other words I figure sales by the year not by the day, week or month. And how much pleasanter this makes it for my customers. May Sachs North Third Street at No. 210

From Music's Imitation to Music's RE-CREATION In 1877 Thomas A. Edison presented the world with a machine that imitated music. It was the original phonograph—still imitated by other manufacturers. This small picture is from an actual photograph taken in July, 1919. It shows Leola Lucey, the musical comedy star, making the Edison "Official Test" of one of her recordings. She stood beside the New Edison and began to sing her song. Suddenly she stopped and the New Edison sang the song alone. There was no difference between her voice and its RE-CREATION. The recording was passed as an "Official" Edison RE-CREATION. The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul" What a tribute to Mr. Edison's genius that he should have invented the first crude machine and then perfected the final triumphant instrument. To develop the imitation of music into the RE-CREATION of music took him nearly 40 years. Experiments alone on the New Edison cost him three million dollars. Yet the models of the New Edison which you see in our store are within reach of every pocketbook. J. H. Troup Music House Truop Building 15 South Market Square
