BANDIT SEARCH IS INVASION OF MEXICAN RIGHTS

Carranza Points Out That His Government Is Dealing Adequately With the Situation

By Associated Press.

Mexico City, Monday, Sept. 1.— In connection with the recent punitive expedition into Mexico by the American army to find bandits who American army to find bandits who were holding two American aviators for ransom, a message from President Carranza, read at the opening session of Congress to-night said:
"This invasion constitutes a violation of our rights. Serious and without motive was this violation that has deeply wounded Mexican patriotic feeling."

The message referred further to

The message referred further to a request by the United States for the punishment of bandits and cites numerous cases to show that the government has prosecuted guilty parties and has met with a great measure of success in dealing with bandits.

Rights Not Observed Speaking of charges of alleged unneutrality by Mexico during the war, the message said:
"The republic of Mexico observed the conduct absolute neutrality, but certain governments have expressed the opinion that the government of Mexico had not been strictly neutral, although they were not able to affirm or specify any act or mission on the part of the government of Mexico which would implicate the least violation of neutrality, judging in accordance with the most exigent principles of international law, treaties now in force and universally established practices. On the other hand, the rights of Mexico as a neutral were not always respected as they were entitled to be, because various units of the American Navy remained in certain exceptional cases more than twenty four hours in our waters, while there were kept at anchor at Tampico vessels of war under the pretext of protecting their fellow nationals."

of protecting their fellow nationals."

Will Not Recognize Doctrine
Regarding the Monroe Doctrine, the message said Mexico did not recognize and will not recognize it,
"inasmuch as it established without the volition of all the peoples of America, a criterion and situation in which they were not consulted and because that doctrine smacked of sovereignty over Mexico and constituted forcible guardianship over all the nations on the American hemisphere."

She was crying as loudly as she could when taken to headquarters. Mr. Buch managed to quiet her down several times, but only to be followed by a new outbreak. "Don't worry; we'll soon have you home," Mr. Buch endeavored to reassure her.

"Mexico continues in good relations with all friendly nations of the world with the exception of Great Britain," the message declared. "The names of those with whom relations are suspended are given for reasons which were stated in the last report to Congress."

Council Approves the Appointment of Veterans to City Police Force

City Council to-day approved the appointment of two city patrolmen, appointment of two city patrolmen, recommended by Mayor Keister. Both men will begin their duties September 15.

The appointees were: Charles M. Graeff, 2212 North Sixth street, formerly in the old Eighth Regiment, to succeed Jacob Zimmerman, resigned, and Howard Schickley, 2142 Greenwood street, to succeed Charles J. Davis, dismissed.

Both men were in service during the war and passed the last civil service examination for patrolmen, ranking in first and third places in percentage.

The only other action by the Commissioners was the approval of a resolution authorizing the transfer of $313.73 from the general contingent fund to the compensation insurance fund.

President Carranza then summarized two notes sent by the American government December 18, 1918, one of which answered the Mexican note claiming the right to legislate on petroleum. Mention was also made of the American protest against the treasury department's circular regarding the collection of royalties from oil companies, and gave the Mexican reply. After protesting against the demands for intervention for the purpose of "making our laws accord with personal interests," President Carranza declared the oil campaign was disguised under the plea for intervention, "because of lack of guarantees they pretend exists in our territory."

he continued, "is not working normally and probably will not for another year. While prospective food supplies for the next twelve months are about equal to the apparent need, unstable political situation, a recurring shortage of shipping, a shortage of credit and a combination of either buyers or sellers will tend to create great speculative waves and may inflate prices to a point unendurable to the consumer, or, in the reserve situation, unendurable to the farmer.

"We will have a large surplus next year and must have a prosperton and abroad. It is my own view that the situation would not have been so acute if the blockade had been removed soon after the armistice was signed, as was urged by the United States government. The speculator would have had his illusions destroyed last winter instead of now. It would also have been possible to have prevented great speculation had we retained an embargo on exports and thus kept the world's speculators puzzled as to the government's action. The rise in food-stuffs, of course, took place only after the control of exports had been removed. On the other hand, the general demand of the public made it impossible to continue the control of exports, as that control tends to retard the resumption of normal economic life." Anaconda

the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Resional System the Keynote
The bill also provides that existing railroad payment contracts with the government shall be continued not longer than four months and that present rates shall continue until changed by the Interstate Commerce Commission with provisions looking to immediate action toward readjustments.

The keynote of the subcommittee's bill, Chairman Cummins stated in an explanation to the Senate, is the plan for establishment of twenty to thirty-five regional rail systems.

The new method for setlement of labor disputes is a committee of wages and working condition, Senator Cummins adding:

"It creates a committee of wages and working conditions which is to be composed of eight members, four representing labor and four representing the railway companies. Each railroad craft is to nominate candidates for this committee and the board is required to appoint four from among such nominees. Each railroad corporation is to nominate a candidate for membership and the board is to appoint four persons from among such nominations. This committee is to consider all complaints submitted by representatives of the employes or of the carriers and is to decide by a majority vote, and its decident of the committee of wages and working conditions is evenly divided upon any dispute, the whole matter is to be The stock exchange reference is to the stock of the General Motors Corporation. "The present high prices of food are not due to over-exports to Europe from the United States during the past year. That can be demonstrated by the fact that we enter a new harvest with larger stocks of previous years' production than at this time last year. In fact, the stocks of many communities are the largest we ever had in storage at this season. Yet prices are very much higher. If we are to account for the high price level on the basis of over-exports, we should have to find a depletion of our national stocks."

Wave Is World-Wide Mr. Hoover pointed out that the problems involved in the speculative wave were very difficult to deal with because it was world-wide and not confined to the United States.
