Again has David Wark Griffith come forth, and by sheer force of his indisputed dramatic philosophy and unchallenged supremacy in the world of the motion picture, offered a dramatic production that for humanness, vitality and power has not heretofore been approached. Such a production is "The Mother and the Law," seen here for the first time yesterday at the Victoria Theater.

Few of Mr. Griffith's productions have afforded such intense emotional roles as those of the boy and the girl in this story. Both characters are humanly typical of those precious is "The Mother and the Law," seen
