Pictures of Men and Women in Legion Ranks To-day

Members of the Harrisburg Canteen Service, who contributed largely to the success of last evening's dance for the Legion by serving old-time refreshments in the way of cider, cakes and doughnuts. They are led by Mrs. Francis J. Hall, the member in the dark uniform at the right of the picture, who has been head of the organization throughout its strenuous war efforts. These canteen workers of Harrisburg have ministered throughout the war to the comfort and welfare of thousands of soldiers, not only those of Harrisburg, but also the great multitude passing through the city on trains to and from the war. To-day another large contingent of soldiers of the First Division were met by these splendid women and sent on their way rejoicing. Mrs. Francis J. Hall is head of the canteen organization, and will entertain her associates at the Hall country home next Wednesday.

TUGS TIED UP

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—Many of the ocean-going tugs in this port were tied up to-day as the result of a strike of marine engineers for an increased wage scale and a nincrease in the engine room force. In addition to the engineers, tug master, deck officers, seamen, cooks and firemen, were automatically thrown out of work.

Another candidate will be Harry C.
Blank, of Allentown, a former member of the Harrisburg Recruiting Station. Sergeant Blank has the support of the Philadelphia delegation which is led by George W. Carr.
The most important election of the day, however, will be that of delegates to the Minneapolis convention. It is claimed by the delegates that the State will be represented fairly by districts.
Great interest is centered about the action which may be taken by the cantonment concerning officers of the Legion who are candidates for public office. Following the lead of the New York-Brooklyn meeting. It is said that a resolution will be adopted this afternoon or to-morrow prohibting a man who holds office in the Legion from being a candidate for any public office.
Want Next Year's Convention
A minor struggle of the cantonment is the attempt of several cites to obtain next year's convention. Allentown, Williamsport and possibly Philadelphia will contend for the honor.

sibly Philadelphia will contend for the honor.

At the session yesterday afternoon the cantonment was called to attention by the temporary State chairman, George F. Tyler, who handed over the chairmanship with the introduction of Franklin D'Olier, who submitted a method of procedure for the delegates. With the adoption of these suggestions and the election of Temporary Chairman William G. Murdock, the meeting settled down to work. Other temporary officers elected at that time were W. J. Smyth, Philadelphia, secretary; Ernest A. Perry, Allentown, and Wharton M. Olsen, Philadelphia, segeant-at-arms; H. C. Blank, Allentown; F. P. Schoonmaker, and Wharton M. Olsen, Philadel-Jphia, sergeant-at-arms; H. C. Blank, Allentown; F. P. Schoonmaker, Bradford; L. McK. Crumrine, Washington, and Mrs. Annette T. Kirby, Philadelphia, vice-chairmen.

1,200 Delegates Present
Following these elections a roll call of the 350 posts was taken, showing the number of delegates present to be 1,200. Many more came in last night and this morning. The business of the afternoon was completed with the announcement of the appointment of committees on credentials, rules, constitution, finances and permanent organization, resolutions, care of disabled soldiers, next State cantonment, nomination of State officers, delegates to the national convention, and State committees. Each of the nine draft board districts met and selected three members for each of the committees, which apportioned the committees according to the population. Voting will be done on the basis of enrolled membership, however.

District Officers Chosen
Elections were announced as follows: Draft board districts Nos. 1 and 2, Franklin D'Olier, chairman; G. W. Carr, vice-chairman, and Romain C. Hassrick, secretary, all of Philadelphia. District No. 3, Harry C. Blank, chairman; Fred B. Reed, secretary, Allentown. District 4, E. J. Pennel, Norristown, and E. B. Krumbhaar, White Marsh. District 5, L. S. Spangler and R. C. Daveler, East Stroudsburg. District 6, Frederick A. Godcharles and J. N. Stuart, Milton. District 7, Charles S. Shadle, and Russel L. Test, Pittsburgh. District 8, F. P. Schoonmaker, Bradford, and E. G. Potter, Smethport. District 9, A. W. Patton, Charlerol, and L. McK. Crumrine, Washington.

Many at Dance
Several hundred delegates accepted the invitation of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce and the local Red Cross to the dance given in honor of the Legion at Chestnut Street Hall. The canteen service was present to serve the guests, and the tables, laden heavily with cider, apples, cakes and all manner of food, were constantly surrounded. Twenty-seven nurses from the Carlisle Hospital were present, the Harrisburg Red Cross furnishing them with transportation under the direction of Charles W. Burtnett.

Cider Barrel Bursts

Mrs. Francis Jordan Hall was in charge of the canteen workers, who were indefatigable in their efforts to make their Legionaire guests feel truly at home. The evening was slightly interrupted at one time by the bursting of a barrel of cider, the contents of which spouted forth in all directions. Aside from this everything went off smoothly. The cider barrels, labeled as Highspire whisky, caused many faces to brighten with surprise, but these hopeful gentlemen were disappointed.

can Legion was discussed at an important meeting of the Committee on Resolutions with Chairman George W. Carr, of Philadelphia, in the chair, this morning. The chairman reported back the resolutions at the session in the Chestnut Street Hall this afternoon at which time a thorough discussion and debate was expected. In view of the difficulties encountered at Washington in settling the claims of ex-service men regarding War Risk Insurance, Allotments, Liberty bonds, etc., a resolution was passed urging the adoption at the National Convention in November of a resolution to enact legislation providing for the establishment in Washington of a service bureau having for its primary purpose the expedition of all business of the American Legion centering in the National Capital.

Boy Scouts Commended

The wor kof the Boy Scouts in the various campaigns throughout the war was highly commended, and the State cantonment urged to pledge its hearty co-operation in the further activities of that body.

The committee likewise endorsed the work of sil the Anti-Tubercular Societies, and put itself on record as commending the campaign to promote the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals to wipe out the white plague.

A resolution condemning the exploitation of the uniform for commercial purposes as reprehensible and and to be viewed with disgust by all ex-service men was unanimously adopted.

Urge General Holiday The sentiment of the committee proved to be in favor of urging that November 11 be made a general fioliday. This matter will probably be referred to the national convention. The question of enacting legislation to take care of disabled soldiers and sailors, who are unfit for further work, instead of leaving them to the care of public charity, was referred to the convention in a resolution.

To Keep Out of Politics
One of the most important discussions centered about the question as to whether or not the American Legion should take an active part in
