GAULT SURE OF CORONERSHIP

Will Be Elected to County Office He Declined to Be Candidate

Marysville, Pa., Oct. 6.—While there were a number of offices in Perry county at the primaries for which in some instances there were no candidates from one, and in other instances, from either party, there will be candidates for every office at the general election in November. In some cases candidates who will get on the ballot by reason of persons having written their names are certain of election. In other instances, hot fights will result between the candidate who got on the ballot in this manner and his opponent.

Dr. George W. Gault, of Marysville, received both party nominations for county coroner by having his name written in polling less than a quarter-hundred votes in each instance, and he is assured of election. Dr. Gault is now serving as county coroner, but he declined to be a candidate for re-nomination at the primaries. He was appointed to office several years ago when there developed a sudden need for the services of such a county agent when it was found that there was no one filling the office. He had previously been elected when his friends wrote his name on the ballot, but he did not announce himself in 1915 and no one was elected at that time.

Walter W. Rice, of New Bloomfield, received the Democratic nomination for district attorney when he received 32 votes. He has already served two terms in this office, but did not seek the party nomination at the primaries. It is understood that he will make no fight for the office, having recently assumed the duties of an appointive post. Other Democrats who will get on the party's ballot by reason of having their names written to will be John S. Sheaffer, register and recorder; Chester E. Burd, county treasurer; A. R. White, director of the poor; and Cloyd H. Wolff and Reuben Wagner, county auditors.

In addition to Dr. Gault, but one Republican will get the ballot by reason of having his name written in County Surveyor J. R. R. Bucks, of Duncannon, receiving re-nomination at that post.

Newton F. Evans, of Loysville, seeking the nomination for sheriff, and David K. Heckendorn, of Seville township, for director of the poor, with six candidates for the county commissioners' nominations, were the only Democrats whose names appeared on the ballots. Both were nominated without opposition. E. R. Loy, of Newport, and G. W. Meckel, of Wheatfield township, received their party nominations for the commissionership.

PICKS SERMON 125 YEARS OLD

Carlisle Church Commemorates Visit of Washington to Borough

The next day he attended divine services in the First Presbyterian Church with Governor Mifflin and other men prominent in early history. On the following day he reviewed his troops from beneath an old elm tree cut down some years ago to make room for a new building for Dickinson College.

York Haven, Pa., Oct. 6.—Just as enthusiastically and patriotically as they marched west to quell the whiskey insurrection, and special services have been in progress here commemorating the 125th anniversary of the visit of George Washington, first President of the country, to Carlisle.

Another striking feature of the celebration was an airplane exhibition by a plane sent here specially for the affair from the Middletown station. The plane arrived here shortly before the start of the parade, and for a full quarter of an hour it circled the crowd, performing stunts and other maneuvers of the like never seen by many local residents. The plane's maneuvering was a low altitude and a turning its driver was visible. ## BIG WORK AHEAD ON STATE ROADS

Bids Asked For the Construction of Over 119 Miles of Highway

Probably the largest mileage in State highway construction to be advertised at one time in the United States was announced to-day at the State Highway Department when bids were asked on 84 contracts embracing almost 120 miles of road building in 18 counties. The bids are to be opened October 31, by which time it is probable that action will be taken on the bids received last week for construction of over 60 miles of road. The State has 216 contracts for road improvement now under way involving almost $30,000,000 with millions of dollars worth of work pending and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of contracts to be let in conjunction with the State. Probably 600 miles of improved road is now under way and it is a race with winter on many jobs where rainy summer and winter's getting material have hampered operations.

Among the contracts to be let the end of this month will be 55,000 feet of concrete road, involving almost $1,000,000; 10 miles of gravel road, involving $250,000; 10 miles of gravel road, involving $250,000; 10 miles of gravel road, involving $250,000; 10 miles of gravel road, involving $250,000.

REVENUE CLERKS TRANSFERRED

Expected Some of Them Will Be Assigned Here From Lancaster

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 6.—Official announcement received at the local revenue office from Collector Ephraim Lederer, of the First District of Pennsylvania, advises the transfer of 14 clerks to the Philadelphia office on Tuesday, October 11.

The receipt of the order relieves the tension among these employees but leaves a doubt as to the final disposition of about ten others. It is possible that these ten deputy collectors will be assigned to Lancaster and other branch offices to be created under the reorganized plan. The position of the permanent assignments in the office at Lancaster, York, Harrisburg and Altoona.

William R. Lantz is still deputy of the local office and it is possible that he will be retained as such. Commissioner Roper's plan is to place within reach of the taxpayers conveniences looking to the understanding of the taxation laws, as well as facility in making payment of taxes. The local business men contend that the closing of the municipal office here will be detrimental to their interests in that inconveniences will be suffered and Lancaster will lose the prestige of being the headquarters of a revenue district.
