Woman Fugitive in "Man Hunt" Following Murder of Two Men

Macon, Ga., Oct. 9. — A "man hunt" with a woman as one of the fugitives was in progress here today. Sheriff Hicks of Bibb county, with a posse of about 100 men, was searching the woods near the site of Camp Harris for a man and a woman charged with killing A. J. Elkins and probably fatally injuring Tom Sanders near here late yesterday.

when they overtook a man and a woman walking. Elkins gave the man a lift and Sanders did likewise for the woman.

After riding a short distance, the man is charged with dealing Elkins a death blow with a hammer he had concealed on his person, and the woman simultaneously is said to have assailed Sanders in the same manner. Sanders was robbed of $50 after which the couple took refuge in the forest, according to the police. Sanders and Elkins were brought here.

Hammers similar to those with which two farmers were struck down were found in a Crawford county banking house shortly after a safe blowing according to the police.

Not Out of Danger, Says Mrs. Sayre, of President Wilson

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 9. — Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, daughter of President Wilson, has returned from Washington where she visited her father. She declared President Wilson was much improved, but that he was not out of danger.

CAN YOU BEAT THE "PROFITEER?"

Sure! There is one food that sells at slight advance in price on account of the war---so slight you will hardly feel it. One SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUIT costs you a fraction over one cent. Two of these crisp, brown little loaves served with hot milk make a warm, nourishing, satisfying meal at a cost of five or six cents. They contain all the body-building elements in the whole wheat grain---nothing wasted or thrown away. The most real food for the least money.

Pianos Which You Know You Can Depend Upon

ON THE WAY TO A BETTER DAY

"The International Sunday School Lesson For October 12 Is "Fishers of Men."—Mark 1:14-20.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

A noisy motorboat now runs on the lake of Galilee. It carries passengers from the station of the Hama-Damascus railroad at the foot of the lake to the town of Tiberias, the only surviving community on the edge of this once populous sheet of water. Capernaum is a ruin; Bethsaida and Chorazin and Magdala and Gardara have disappeared. Tiberias is a Jewish town, where rival sects of old-world Jews maintain their theological and ecclesiastical orthodoxy to the mint and the main.

Fellow passengers on the motorboat are Jewish colonists, British soldiers, Turkish prisoners, and native Arabs and Galileans. While you wait for your journey across the lake to begin, olive-skinned small boys sport in the water diving for oysters and showing shining, sun-kissed faces, with lustrous black eyes and beautiful teeth; reminding one of that Other Boy who used to trudge across the hills from Nazareth in order to go in swimming here; and who later made His home and did His work and spoke His words by this very lake.

Of course I went swimming in Galilee, overboard from a native boat in the middle of the lake; and of course I went fishing there; thinking all the while of the other fishermen, brawny, dusky fellows, just like my boatman, who quit their nets in order to become fishers of men and molders of the new world, the order which is still to-day the highest hope of mankind.

One Prophet Dead, A Greater Comes Back of the short story which is the basis of to-day's lesson is a great principle. John the Baptist, the rising star of his time, the most promising portent upon his day's horizon, was driven from Nazareth in order to go in swimming here; and who later made His home and did His work and spoke His words by this very lake.

And he was dead. What now of his good news and his promised kingdom? "God removes the worker, but He carries on the work." Sometimes He has to remove the worker in order to carry on the work. John had gone his limit; had spoken his word, had uttered his call. He could do no more. His place was only that of a herald and ring-leader. His success depended upon Somebody's coming after him, with a larger vision and a greater word. Nobody knew this so well as John. He joyfully laid down his tools, and gave up his life, for he saw that another could fulfil his beginning. In Whittier's words:

"What matter, I or they? Mine or another's day, So the right word be said And life the sweeter made?"

"Hail to the coming singers! Hail to the brave light-bringers! Forward I reach and share All that they sing and dare."

"Ring bells in unreared steeples, The joy of unborn peoples! Sound, trumpets far off blown, Your triumph is my own!"

The Key of Life's Puzzles Back to work went the men who had followed John the Baptist. Did it seem a slight to them, to be in times of the revival by the Jordan with the crowds, the commotion and the ever-changing scenes of interest? As those fishermen turned back to the heavy, monotonous, arduous task of fishing in Galilee, their first instinctive feeling, doubtless, was akin to that of the soldiers' return from the great war, which had brought peace. They were wise enough, though, to know that work is the sovereign remedy: to have work to do, and will to do it, is to be in possession of the paces for most of life's ills. The wise men of our own time are crying aloud this truth as a remedy for present social, economic and political ills. Work has slackened; production is below normal; labor is coming to be looked upon as an evil, and not as a boon. Now is the time for all of us to follow the example of the apostles of old, and in a period of uncertainty and of waiting, betake ourselves to labor, hard, engrossing, ungrudging labor, such of what is wrought by ourselves and our era will be righted by sheer industry of a productive character.

While we wait and work the way out will appear. God seems not to like to do business with idlers; whereas the devil traffics chiefly with persons who are not busy. The four fishermen were toiling; the druggery of their heavy calling—I am thinking of the huge oars and cumbersome boats of Galilee—when Jesus appeared to them. Nets were weighty, and the men worked, often these Galileans were doing, but the up to the middle in water. It was no fly-casting sort of fishing that was, when they heard the "Voice that called them to their careers."

"News Sense" in a Leader Some men have that pictorial and pertinent quality called a "news sense." Their conception of timeliness and opportunity is highly developed. The living present is their meter. They speak and write to the occasion and to the hour. Such an one was Jesus, the most vivid of teachers. On this tour of Galilee, wherein he called the four first disciples, he was preaching the present good news of a kingdom near at hand—"the time is fulfilled"—and echoing John's great call to repentance.

This fact is often forgotten. Jesus began His ministry proclaiming a better social order. He was the exponent of men and women with God as their king. Anybody who says that religion has nothing to do with the welfare of people economically and socially, has been a blind reader of the Bible. Moreover, there will be no new era for humanity until a great many persons have heard the divine call and command. "Repent Ye!" Both nations and men will have to mend their ways if we are to have the good time which has ever been the burden of prophetic messages. Things will never be right with men until men get right with God.

Advice to the Lovelorn SHE WANTS TO GO TO THE THEATER

DEAR MISS FAIRBANKS: I am twenty and considered good looking. I have been going about with a man for several years. My very seldom takes me to any place of amusement which consequently causes remarks among my folks. I don't think he is stinky, but it is just that he doesn't think that far. I have been told that he must be ashamed of me, and have been advised to give him up. I love him dearly and don't know what to do.

Possibly your friend can't afford to take you out very often. Possibly he enjoys merely being with you, mill after a meeting yesterday that an amicable agreement had been reached between the company and the men and that the men would return to work as soon as possible.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This is done by using a special dandruff cream which is entirely new. It does not get about four ounces of plain, or when retreating, rub it in gently with the scalp and rub it in gently with the fingers.

NATION-WIDE TRUCE URGED IN INDUSTRIES

son of the Department of Labor, said to have the approval of President Wilson, was included in the proposals of the public group. It would provide for joint boards of employers and employees in each industry; for a general board appointed by the President to adjust appeals from these boards; and, in event the general board failed to arrive at an unanimous decision an umpire to be selected either by unanimous choice of the general board, or by lot from a standing list of twenty persons named by the President.

"Whenever an agreement is reached, locally or by the unanimous vote of the industrial board, or by the unanimous vote of the general board or by the decision of the umpire, the conclusion arrived at shall have all the force and effect of a trade agreement which employers and employees shall be morally bound to accept and abide by," said the plan. "It is understood that this plan would not interfere with any system of joint wage conferences now in existence, unless or until the failure of such a conference is the cause of a strike."

Actress Tells Secret Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture

Joicey Williams, the well-known actress, who was recently playing at the Imperial Theater in St. Louis, made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it: "Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 3/4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

BIG ULCER ALL HEALED "Now I Can Walk," Says Mrs. Southcott of Medina

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson of Buffalo. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big hearted, rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such mighty healing power as Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all drug stores for a large box."

Read this letter, written February 14, 1918, by Mrs. Albert Southcott of Medina, N. Y. It seems like a miracle, but it is true, every word of it. I know it because I get similar letters every day from people who have used my ointment for old sores, eczema and piles.

Is it any wonder I am happy! Peterson's Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcer. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the relief I got from it. The ulcer was not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars worth of the ointment, it was healed. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6 1/2 inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again."

"You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Medina, N. Y. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.
