Averages For Seven Games Tech Star Has Been on Sick Show Some Hard List; Chester Here on Hitters Saturday

All the Sox players boosted their batting averages yesterday but Neale, the Reds' right fielder, managed to stick out in front as the leading hitter with an average of 375.

Joe Jackson, who was displaced from the lead by Neale, came through with two safeties that boosted his total of hits to ten but his batting mark is 370.

Directly following Jackson is the wonderful little catcher, Ray Schalk, who has a mark of .315.

Even Felsch Hit

Haps Felsch managed to come across with two hits and now has a fair hitting mark of .238, while Eddic Collins, despite his two bingles yesterday, is still trailing along with a .150 average.

The failure of the Red hitters in this series has been noteworthy. Roush with .125 and Groh with .130 and Rath with .222 tells a tale for itself.

MORAN HAD SECRET SERVICE; GLEASON USED JUST ONE SPY

Chicago, Oct. 9. — Commenting upon the relationship between strategem and spoils accruing therefrom, James Crusinberry comments as follows in the Tribune:

"It is rumored that Manager Mot and hand him in some secret place every day. This board of strategy around him in some secret place every day. This board of strategy stuff seems to be a good thing, too. There didn't seem much doubt but that they had a secret series staff that obtained a pretty good line of dope on every one of Gleason's players.

"Anyway, right in the first game they were playing in the proper manner to the various batters and they were playing in the proper places to handle anything hit by the Sox. They acted like a bunch that had been playing in the American League pennant and been playing in the American League pennant had been playing in the American League pennant and didn't see where anyone of defense, and let it go at that. Now the baseball experts are all wondering the team of Connie Mack Medl. Connie Mack had a board of strategy with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were players for the series with the Cubs and they were prevared. Consequently the Macks had a board of strategy with the Cubs and they wen four out of five games in a hurry.

The sudden turn of the Chicago White Sox in the World's Series has set the baseball fans of Harrisburg on edge and a great crowd turned out to-day at Chestnut Street Auditorium to see the eighth game of the second day of arguments in the Supreme Court, which is considering the Government's anti-trust suit against that organization. C. B. Ames, assistant to the Attorney General, appearing for the Government declared the corporation was organized for the purpose of eliminating the "possibilities of competition" and asked for its dissolution, while Richard V. Lindabury, for the defense, urged the court to sustain lower court decrees dismissing the proceedings.

Replying to inquiries by Justices Van De Vanter and Pitney, Judge Ames told the court that aside from asking for the breaking up of the corporation into competitive units, the Government has no plan to suggest.
