Blouse Show to Prove Development of American Trade

New York, Oct. 13.—The outstanding feature in connection with National Blouse Week, November 10 and 11, will be the fact that during the seven days devoted to the project waists made in the U. S. A., ranging in price from 98 cents to $200, will be displayed by the department stores and specialty blouse shops in an endeavor to prove conclusively the fact that the blouse industry in the United States has developed to a point nearer perfection than ever before and that the domestic trade can hold its own against foreign countries, whereas several years ago imported blouses were sought for in preference to the merchandise made by the American wholesale houses.

A statement issued by Executive Director M. Mosson of the League tells of the fact that over 18,000 retailers from Maine to California, as well as over 400 manufacturers, will participate in National Blouse Week, the former by displaying merchandise in their windows and giving more space to the displays in the interior of their stores, while the latter are co-operating by introducing new styles and quoting special values in an effort to give the retailer the opportunity to sell the blouses during the special week at the most attractive prices.

Plans to Preserve History of All Trees

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13.—Plans to reserve the history of every species of tree known throughout the world were announced here today by Prof. Charles S. Sargent, head of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University, which has established the most complete collection of trees and shrubs in America, the finest herbarium of 200,000 specimens.

Professor Sargent, who has accompanied explorations throughout North America and the Far East, declares that if the alumni provide the funds necessary to carry on the work, the arboretum will purchase more land, make new explorations and bring into the parks of America many more new trees and rare shrubs. The arboretum was founded in 1874, and is considered among specialists to be the most important institution of its kind in the world.

Blockade Baltic Sea; Ships Stay at Kiel

Berlin, Oct. 13.—No ships are being permitted to leave Kiel, according to the Vossische Zeitung, which adds that Stettin ship owners have sent wireless dispatches to vessels at sea to return immediately to Stettin or to go to the nearest port. News of a blockade of the Baltic Sea has created a sensation in Danzig, where large cargoes of coal and herring were expected in the next few days.

Consider Asiatics a Serious Menace

Pretoria, Oct. 13.—At a mass meeting held here to consider the question of Asiatics in the Transvaal, a resolution was adopted declaring that the meeting "views with the greatest alarm the serious menace to the economic and social welfare of the inhabitants of the Transvaal occasioned by the continued encroachment of Asiatics and advocates immediate measures to deal with this question."

Montenegrins Win Over Serbian Troops

Paris, Oct. 13.—Montenegrin forces have inflicted heavy losses on Serbian detachments, in the Montenegrin insurrection, which is reported to be continuing in a statement issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Montenegrin Government. Montenegro, it is said, has again asked the great powers to order the Serbians out of Montenegro.

New Engineering School at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13.—The recent opening of Harvard University has centered attention on the new engineering school, which has just begun its first year of instruction in mechanical, electrical, civil and sanitary engineering, mining and metallurgy, and industrial chemistry. Founded by the generosity of the late Gordon McKay, and an outgrowth of the Lawrence Scientific School established here in 1847, the new school has opened its doors to its first students with an initial teaching staff of 22 professors and ten instructors. The staff is being enlarged, it is said, if additional income is provided through the drive now to endow the university with a fund of $15,250,000.

Dean Comfort Avery Adams, in charge of the school, declares that Harvard's aim is "to build a genuine school of engineering, not a glorified trade school, and to establish a standard of attainment commensurate with the highest ideals of engineering."
