LAFAYETTE AN AMERICAN

From the many things that have lately been written about the happy relations between Lafayette and America Morris Edmond Speare, of the Department of History and English in the United States Naval Academy, has added the little known fact that Lafayette was actually a citizen of the United States. Before the United States came into existence Maryland passed an act to naturalize Major General the Marquis de la Fayette and his Heirs Male Forever, and when that state came into the Union it brought all its citizens with it. The act was passed by the Maryland Legislature on December 28, 1784; and although the Constitution of the United States later assumed, in its first article, the exclusive right of establishing uniform rules of naturalization throughout the Nation, all who were citizens of the respective states when they ratified the Constitution became citizens of the Nation. One hardly doubts, however, that Congress had it been necessary, would have ratified the citizenship that Maryland had given to Lafayette.
