"When a Girl Marries"

By ANN LISLE A New, Romantic Serial Dealing With the Absorbing Problem of a Girl Wife

CHAPTER COCXXIV (Copyright, 1919, Star Feature Syn-dicate, Inc.) "Yes I've a confession to make," I intent as I was, however, on the fact that I was about to take Jim completely into my confidence, I moted his odd manner of accepting my statement. Then suddenly I found I dodn't know where to start. I swept back to the very beginning—the loss of the ring, my realization that only two persons had had a chance to take it and Bertha's confession that in a grame where you' have to out-guess the other lellow. closet because I didn't want to force your hand. And then you came in and finding me with the ring and the lavender thing you'd worn when the jewel was lifted and couldn't tell me an out and out lie, but thought I'd fall for your yarning to Uncle Ned over the phone." "Oh, Jim!" I cried hiding my face on his shoulder. "The blue dress is on the shelf of my closet," said Jim." I thought you'd have to come to me about it eventually."

you'd nave to come to me about it eventually." "I came without having to," I said softly. "I'll always be glad of that. I'm always coming to you about things, dear. Maybe some day you'll come to me. Then there will be perfect confidence between us. Jim gave me an odd start and con-trolled it suddenly. Then he said returning with obvious relief to the subject of Daisy: "Now the next thing is to get the dress back to the kid. She needs it like the very old Harry-that I'll bet." "Jim, darling, you're wonderful!"

There can be nothing simpler than taking a convenient little tablet four times each day until your weight is reduced to normal. That's all-just purchase a case of Marmola Prescrip-tion Tablets from your druggist (or if you prefer, send $1 to Marmola Co. 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.) and follow directions. No dieting, no exercise. Eat what you want-be as lazy as you like and keep on getting slimmer. And the best part of Mar-mola. Prescription Tablets is their harmlessness. That is your absolute safeguard.
