State Convention Closes Tonight With Big Banquet at the Penn-Harris

DR. CHARLES SHEARD

One of the outstanding features of to-day's program for the conven-tion of the Pennsylvania State Optical Association was the lecture given this morning by Dr. Charles Sheard, formerly professor of Applied Optics at Ohia State University, and now physiological opticist for the American Optical Company of Southbridge, Mass. Dr. Sheard's lecture was on the subject of "The Correlation of Accommodation and Convergence." Dr. Sheard is recognized as being the foremost authority on optics relating to the theory and practice of ocular refraction and of the field of physiological optics. He has written a textbook on the subject, the first one to appear in the English language. He has written a number of books on various phases of eye practice and is the originator of many new methods ious phases of eye practice and is the originator of many new methods of practice. His time is now largely devoted to research work in his chosen field, and is directly connected with the American Optical Company, the largest concern of its kind, and most popularly known becauses of its manufacture of Sir William Crooke's lenses.

Another lecture scheduled for to-day's session is that of Elmer Robinson of the Kirstein Co., whose subject will be "Advertising."

Last night's session was an informal one. An excellent motion picture was shown. The picture, "Through Life's Window," was an educational one in the practice of optics. Immediately following this picture, Dr. E. J. Deane gave a lecture on the subject of "Toxic Amblyopia." This was in turn followed by a formal welcome being extended to the delegates by J. S. Belsinger, chairman of the entertainment committee. The meeting then became to the delegates by J. S. Belsinger, chairman of the entertainment committee. The meeting then became a smoker at which there were many talks of fifteen minutes each for the good of optometry. Much of the time was given to the promotion to Pennsylvania's College of Optometry which is located in Philadelphia. This college is a new project, having been promoted first at the last annual convention at York. Since that time a great deal has been done, and to-day the college is in operation. Last night many new members were secured, for this college is owned, managed and taught by optometrists. It is to-day the fulfillment of a promise made a year ago.

To-night the convention comes to a close with the annual banquet at which it is expected that fully 200 will attend. The banquet will bring to a close what is claimed as being without exception the best State optical convention which has ever been held. From every standpoint one hears most favorable comment about the manner in which the Harrisburg Optometrists Society handled the convention, and the success which attended their efforts in securing speakers of such high caliber, and such a goodly number of exsuch a goodly number of ex-The following officers were elect-

Fur Robbers Wound Policeman and Civilian in Big Gun Fight

Philadelphia, Oct. 14. — A series Philadelphia, Oct. 14. — A series of daring crimes of the last few months reached a high point yesterday, in a revolver battle between police and thieves, in which one policeman and a civilian were badly injured and two of the bandits captured. The gunplay occurred at Twenty-first street and Columbia avenue, following a robbery of furs two blocks away.

Aroused by the robberies of fur stores, jewelry places and other stores which have netted thieves tens of thousands of dollars, business organizations in all parts of the city are urging extra precautions against the depredations and at special meetings will call on the police for adequate protection.

Staff Officers See No Menace to U. S.

No Menace to U. S.

Washington, Oct. 13.— Officers of the general staff of the Army were questioned by the House Military Committee relative to whether there was any menace to the nation's peace not generally known which required the large standing army recommended by Secretary of War Baker and General March. They said they knew of none, but that their superiors might have information which had not been disclosed to them.

"The fact that the United States was able to transport 350,000 men overseas in a single month, a number undreamed of before the war, makes it necessary for us to have available sufficient troops to resist a hostile force of similar size in addition to protecting our frontiers, "Colonel Peter Murray said.

to Give Recital Here

Harrisburg is to be favored by the appearance of the gifted child pianiste of France, Mile. Brard, who will be the soloist in this city with the New York Symphony Orchestra at Chestnut street auditorium on the afternoon of November 1. This little daughter of France will be an inspiration and stimulus to all American iste of age. having had her first appearance with the Paris orchestra at the activation of a series of triumphant appearances in her own country, after which she toured Spain where she was greeted everywhere by most enthusiastic audiences. Mile. Brard was heard in this country last year in few of the Americanization musual career.

With such an unusual soloist adding much interest to the superb program as arranged by Walter Damrosch, the conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, all patrons of good music should grasp this opportunity to honor soloist and orchestra alike before they leave this country for a tour of Europe as the first representative America orchestra to play in Euuropean countries.

A special feature of the program will be the rendition of Mr. Damrosch's own arrangement of the well-known and also well-loved "Largo" by Handel in response to requests of Harrisburg music lovers. A request was also received for the famous "Concerto in G. Minor" by Saint-Saens, which has also been granted, and will be played by Mile. Brard with the orchestra.

Because of the demand for tickets from neighboring towns and the local demand, the management has decided to open the seat sale at once to furnish satisfactory service. A large number of student tickets are now available, and can be supplied to the local teachers of music. Blocks of seats will be reserved for schools and colleges as orders are placed. Mail orders should be accompanied by check made payable to Salome Sanders, manager, care of C. M. Sigler, inc., 30 North Second street, Harrisburg, Pa. These orders will be filled in the order received.

Shantung Award to Japan Prop to Paganism, Is Opinion of Norris

Washington, Oct. 14. — Another three-hour attack on the Shantung provision by Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, and a ten-minute speech of the same character by Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, constituted the sum of the Senate's program yesterday in consideration of the Peace Treaty.

Quoting from the reports of missionaries in regard to conditions in Korea, Senator Norris said it was the purpose of the Japanese Government to drive Christianity out of Asia and that the United States would be aiding in that attempt if it acquiesced in the Treaty proposal to extend Japanese rule over Shantung.
