WIDOW SUES FOR $90,000 DAMAGES

Woman Whose Husband Was Killed by Pennsy Engine Brings Record Action

Sunbury, Pa., Oct. 15.—Suit for $90,000 damages for the loss of her husband, who was killed in a railroad accident at Mt. Carmel on February 15, last, was brought yesterday by Mrs. Marietta Fendale against Walker D. Hines, director of railroads, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., in the Northumberland county court. Negligence is alleged. It is the largest amount of damages claimed for the loss of a human life in the history of the common law court here, according to the record.

According to the woman's plaintiff's statement, Fendale was driving in his automobile, which stalled on a grade crossing. A locomotive pushing a car ahead of it, was running about six miles an hour, when the automobile stalled. It struck and pushed the machine seventy-five feet, killing the man.

It is alleged two brakemen were riding on the front of the car, and that they had ample time to signal the engineer to stop the locomotive in time to save his life. Fendale was a merchant at Mt. Carmel, and he was well known about the county.

Hanover, Pa., Oct. 15.—The Rev. H. B. Stock, Carlisle, was elected president of the West Pennsylvania synod of the Lutheran church yesterday at the ninety-fifth annual meeting of the organization in St. Matthew's church, this place. The Rev. Fred Sternat, Abbottstown, Adams county, was elected secretary; the Rev. Albert G. Bell, York, treasurer, and the Rev. C. E. Arnold, secretary. One of the other features of the sessions yesterday was an address by the Rev. Dr. William A. Granville, president of the State Department.

The Rev. Dr. Granville in his address said that the Lutheran church is receiving better pay than many other churches in Pennsylvania. He made a plea for more adequate support of church colleges by means of endowments and said that if this support is not forthcoming church colleges will be forced to close. He praised the work of the women of the synod during the war, and said that the personal service experiences of the young men in the army and navy should be stimulated by the church.

Dr. Gotwald in his report made a number of recommendations upon which the synod probably will act. Principal among these was one urging the synod to assume $15,000 as its apportionment of the benevolent fund during the fiscal year beginning December 1; another that a new synodical office be formulated, and that a committee of five be appointed to carry out this work, and a third that the synod pledge its support and cooperation to the benevolent campaign of the church to be carried out during the week of November 23 to 30.

LEAVES TO TAKE VEGETABLES TO BE STORED NOW

State Authorities Give Some Pointers in Regard to Care For Them

The Bureau of Markets of the State Department of Agricultural to-day calling attention to the time for storing vegetables and fruits for winter use. Home storage is of importance at all times, but it is especially so now, because of present price conditions. This is the harvesting season for late crops and many people find it advantageous to buy at this time the necessary quantity to store for winter use.

The successful storage of vegetables is not difficult; in fact, good storage facilities already exist in most homes, it being only necessary to make use of the cellar, the attic, a large closet or other parts of the dwelling, depending on the character of the product to be stored. A cool, well-ventilated cellar offers good facilities for storing vegetables and some fruits. Cellars containing a furnace frequently are too warm and dry for storing root crops, but it often is possible to partition on a space in one corner or at the end of the cellar as far from the heating plant as possible. Preferably there should be an outside window in this storage space which can be used to let in cold air at night or at other times for the purpose of keeping down the temperature. Sound dry apples, beets, carrots, parsnips, potatoes, pumpkins, squash, sweet potatoes and turnips may be kept in such a room in good condition for winter use.

STOPS PERSHING WITH LIGHTS ON

York County Soldier Expected Action Would Be Re-buked by Chief

Settling, Oct. 12.—Elmer Hare, a soldier recently returned from France, relates an interesting story of his experiences while on military police duty with the American troops and how he held up General Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American army. He was stationed about one and a half miles back of the firing line on a certain sector in France at the time. Noticing four lights on a car, the sergeant in charge of the platoon ordered Hare to go out and tell the occupants of the car to put out their lights. Hare hastened to obey orders, and halted General and his staff, saying, "Sir, the General does not have his lights burning." The staff officers took Hare's name, rank and organization. The young soldier's mind was in a daze when he was ordered to put out his lights. When Hare related his experience to his commanding officer he was told he had taken the right course, even when he knew who was the occupant of the car. Events proved later that the commander-in-chief had kept his lights burning purposely to test the military police on their alertness. The lights had been dimmed by order of General Pershing.

The structure had been closed to traffic for three weeks, during which Little Conewago had done up fully two and one-half miles' cross the creek.
