Poppies Over Graves

Behind the dugout, the bodies of three soldiers—two Belgians and one German—were buried on the bank of a tiny pond, made by bursting shells. Little crosses mark the resting places and over them poppies nod.

aration for Run-down Men and Women

Time after time patients come to me and say: *Doctor*.

I don't know what is the matter with me but I worry about every thing; I am irritable, rundown and weak; I don't sleep like I thing; I am irritable, rundown and weak; I don't sleep like I thing; I am irritable, rundown and the something to used to; and I have no appetite. Can't you give me something to used to; and I have no appetite out of ten such cases, I have the up? In practically nine out of ten such cases, I have fix me up? In practically nine out of ten such cases, I have from the tree ten such cases, I have the up? In practically nine out of ten such cases, I have the up? In practically nine out of ten such cases, I have the up? I have the up the up return of youthful strength and ambition.

It is astonishing the number of men and women who suffer from weakened or played-out nerves and do not know it. Simply from weakened or played-out nerves and do not know it. Simply from weakened or played-out nerves with all sorts of unknown because pain or distress occurs in the stomach, for instance, we are people foolishly dose themselves with all sorts of unknown gany people foolishly dose themselves with all sorts of unknown concoctions or go on a starvation diet that may weaken and undermine the whole system—when the real and true cause of the pain or disorder in the stomach may be simply a weakened or rundown nervous system.

And the same thing is often true about other ailments such and the same thing is given true about other allments such eadaches, anaemia, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and such laints.

All through my medical experience I have made it a point not to endorse publicly any sort of medicine, no matter how good; but in the case of Parto-Glory, I feel that an exception should be made to my rule. Every good physician should know about this extraordinary nerve tonic so as to be able to sabout this extraordinary nerves tonic so as to be able to prescribe it for his nervous, run-down, weakened patients.

I have used Parto-Clory myser and can testify to its astonishing recuperative and strengthening effect when the astonishing recuperative and strength and energy are at low nervous system is "on edge" and strength and energy are at low obb, due to system weaknesses, One of the most gratifying things obb, due to system weaknesses, one of the most gratifying things about Parto-Glory is the fact that it tones up the nervous system quickly and gives surprisingly beneficial results in one system quickly and gives surprisingly beneficial results.

All through my medical experience t have made it's point

The Two-Sided Healer
Symmetry is strength. Most of us are lop-sided. We have developed one phrase of our nature at the expense of others. We are alive to business and pleasure, but dead to business and pleasure, but dead to idealism and aestheticism. Or we have cultivated force and forgotten tenderness. We may be righteous but we are not merciful. Or we are dreamers, but not doers. Character four-square is not common. In the present lesson we have two characteristics of our Lord; He was a mystic, and yet He was also an adventurer.

tic, and yet He was also an adventurer.

After the nerve-sapping Sabbath in Peter's home, when he had spent himself so lavishly for all comers, the Healer might reasonably be expected to sleep late the next morning. On the contrary, "rising up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed." There we have the mystical side of Jesus. He deemed communion with God more vital than rest or work: the harder He toiled, the more He prayed. So His spirit fled from the multitude into the desert place, probably east of the lake; and there, to the howls of the lake; not drength and there, to the howls of the late-prowling jackals and the first chirp of the awakening birds, He laid hold upon His Heavenly Father for strength.

This trysting place with God was known to the disciples, indicating that retreat for prayer was habitual with the Master: and they, overimpressed with the popularity that had come to Jesus, found Him and cried judilantly: "All men are seeking thee." To them it was an exciting fact that their Leader had "made a hit" in Capernaum.

Lo, the news affected him not at all as they expected; for His pioneer spirit was not content to settle down and sip the sweets of success. So spirit was not content to settle down spirit was not content to settle down and sip the sweets of success. So he met their clamors for a return to Capernamu by the announcement that He was going to tour Gaillee! He was the adventurer, the man of outreach and activity. The religions beyond ever beckoned Him; the "other sheep" who needed shepherding were ever before His vision. What an insatible soul was the Savior!

RIGHT THERE WITH ADVICE "Heels together! Stand up straight and button that blouse! Don't you know enough to salute an officer yet?" demanded the C. O. of the yet?" demanded the C. O. of the new sentry.

"Nope. Just got here yesterday and ain't much acquainted yet."

"Well." replied the C. O., taken aback, "I am the colonel of the regiment and the commanding officer of this post."

"Good job, old man. Hang on to it," replied the rookle.—American Legion Weekly.
