LUTHERAN SYNOD COMES TO CLOSE

West Pennsylvania Body Decides to Meet at Chambersburg in 1920

Hanover, Pa., Oct. 17.—The distribution of synodical apportionments among the various congregations of the synod, the election of three members to the board of directors of the Lutheran Seminary at Gettysburg, as well as the election of the ninth clerical delegate to the first convention of the United Lutheran church in America, were the principal items of business at the next year in Washington, and the reports of several committees were features of the closing sessions yesterday of the 92nd convention, West Pennsylvania Lutheran synod. The convention adjourned last night to meet in the First Lutheran church at Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 19, 1920.

On the second ballot taken yesterday the Rev. Dr. F. G. Gotwald, York, was chosen as the ninth delegate to the convention in Washington. The other members previously elected are: The Rev. H. H. Stok, Carlisle; R. H. Bergstresser, Hanover; J. A. Lutz, Gettysburg; R. W. Steacy, Carlisle; Charles H. Chambersburg; S. L. Hench, Dallastown; F. C. Starnat, Abbotstown, and G. Nicely, Hanover.

The urgent needs of additional endowments for the Lutheran Seminary at Gettysburg was strongly impressed on the synod through a report from the synod's representatives on the governing board of the institution. The report was presented by the Rev. Dr. E. D. Weigle. Endowments of at least $100,000 were needed at once in order to maintain parity with other institutions of similar type. The theological seminary, at the present time, he reported, is free of debt. The school year of the school was recently increased by a bequest of $15,000, the interest of which is now available for such purposes.

The construction of a building for children between the ages of three and six years at the Tressler Orphan's Home, at York, is authorized by the synod. The committee appointed by President F. G. Gotwald to act on the advisability of erecting such a structure returned a favorable report that a building be erected at a cost of approximately $20,000.

SUGAR SHORT IN BIG APPLE BELT

Syrup May Have to Be Used to Sweeten Butter in the Battlefield Town

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 17.—The sugar shortage is more serious here than a year ago when the commodity could be purchased only upon presentation of a card issued by the food administrator. While no card is necessary now the sugar is scarce it is more difficult to get than it was then. Merchants who have any in stock at all will not sell more than two pounds to one customer. Some limit the sale to one pound, while other merchants do not have any in stock at all.

Many households are in sore straits as fall preserving and apple butter boiling are yet to be done. Apples are plentiful throughout the county. Cider presses are busy turning out their product, but practically no cider is available for sale without a supply of sugar on hand to use in the making.

Housewives are willing to use any kind of sugar, but all kinds are scarce. Merchants are advising the use of Karo syrup for sweetening for the apple butter and it is possible this will have to be done.

GAS POURS INTO ROOM AND KILLS

Laborer Found Asphyxiated in Columbia Boarding House; Jet Was Loose

Columbia, Pa., Oct. 17.—Andrew Kusic, a laborer at the Billmyer quarries, was found dead in a room at the Tremont House in this place yesterday morning by the landlady when she went to the room to call him. He had applied the night before for lodging and was assigned a room. Dr. G. P. Taylor, the coroner's physician, found upon examination that death resulted from asphyxiation. The man had turned off the gas, but as the jet was loose and it had been given an extra turn, it escaped and caused his death, although the window was raised about three inches and there was a broken window pane in the room. Kusic was found on his knees with his head resting on the bed. Other than a brass check giving his number and a little money, there was nothing on his clothing to identify him. He was about 50 years old and had left the quarries last Saturday. His body was taken in charge by an undertaker.

Men's Clothing Marked at Small Profits

There isn't any use in trying to camouflage the fact that men's clothing is much higher priced this year than it was last.

All clothing stores will frankly tell you the same thing. But—

In order to give our customers the very best purchasing advantage possible and with the aim in view to increase our patronage, we have marked all our new winter suits and overcoats at a very small margin of profit.

We believe the good dresser and the thinking man will take this into consideration.

There's An Advantage In Comparison

WHEREVER one goes, whether to the large cities or the small, one finds the public shopping around.

This is true in Harrisburg.

Since prices have become higher, merchandise scarcer, good things very difficult to procure, one does not easily find the most desired article.

During the past few years—you, dear reader, will easily remember them—all stores, regardless of the character of merchandise they carried, were compelled to price merchandise higher.

The woman who purchased ready-to-wear in the so-called lower priced stores soon became aware of the fact that the prices had advanced to a considerable degree.

What was the natural conclusion?

The great majority of women to-day shop around town and compare values.

This is not only an advantage to us, as the leading exponent of high-class ready-to-wear, but it is a decided advantage to the woman, because she finds that she can purchase to better advantage with real economy at this establishment, at the same time procuring the finest character of merchandise at moderate prices.

True, our regular patrons look forward each season to the new things at Schleisner's, and during the entire year they depend upon this store to fill their apparel requirements.

But we are too broad to think for a moment that everybody is acquainted with this establishment. We believe there are many people who have not yet purchased here, who have not become acquainted with the store and who, perhaps, have hesitated to come into this store.

To those people in particular we wish to extend a special invitation to come in and inspect our lines of ready-to-wear and compare them with those seen in other stores.

Fashion, quality, tailoring, assortment, price, service, taken into consideration, we are firmly convinced, will lead to but one conclusion:

It is good sense to confine to Schleisner's one's purchasing of ready-to-wear.

Throughout our entire establishment the lines have never been so broad as they are today.

The New Winter Coats, Dresses, Suits, Blouses, Millinery, Lingerie and Hosiery are here in abundant assortments and will adequately fill the needs of the most elaborate or modest wardrobe.
