No, that won't be necessary. But just the same if Harrisburg realized how much his advent meant, the city would turn out to greet him. He'll be here two days, October 22 and 23. But his visit will be talked of for two years.

LITTLE HOPE FOR PREVENTION OF BIG COAL STRIKE

View in Capital That Operators Will Adhere to Their Stand

Washington, Oct. 18.—Taking into account the grave dangers which would result from the closing down of the mines, official Washington is discussing the possibilities of adjusting the differences. Although some officials held out hope that the miners and operators in the face of the tremendous public demand and pressure would reach a compromise the general view was that the strike call would stand. This was based on the feeling that the operators would adhere to their refusal to consider a five-day week, which labor leaders declared was the one thing for which they were fighting and on which they were prepared to make the issue now.

Falling after an all day conference to avert a strike of nearly half a million bituminous coal miners, called for the very eve of winter, Secretary of Labor Union invited miners and operators to send their full scale commitments to Washington next Tuesday when another effort to bring about peace in the industry will be made.

Accept in station. Both sides accepted the invitation. This did not offer any great hope however, for representatives of the operators stood firm in their determination not to negotiate any demand for a six-hour day, for which they with the unions unless the strike, set for November 1, was called off.

John I. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America, whose word probably would swing the other way, said he would not show that he was laboring under a terrible strain when he left the three-day meeting. Speaking to a group of reporters he said he had told Secretary Wilson that the thirty-two members of his wage scale committee would be here Tuesday to meet an equal number from the other side, but that it would be useless to reconvene the joint interstate wage conference unless both operators and miners showed a willingness to frame another agreement.

Monday evening the Men's League of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church will hold its annual banquet in the parish house at 8:30 o'clock. A chicken and waffle supper will be served. Dr. J.

George Becht of the State Department speaker at the banquet. Sixty members of the league are expected to be present. The committee in charge of the banquet includes John F. O'Neill, chairman, Frank Newcomer, Carl Rapp, and Gilbert Mattson.

---pleasant evenings at home

When you come home from the office all "fagged out," and you sit down for a pleasant evening around the library table, don't let a chilly room spoil all the fun. With a Majestic Electric Heater, you can, at a cost of a few cents, heat up the room in a remarkably short time. And a Majestic makes a room feel so cheery and comfortable—it's the next thing to the heat given out by the rays of Old Sol himself—invigorating and not the kind that makes a room feel "stuffy."
