

KING FEEDS HIS HUNGRY PEOPLE

Ferdinand Lades Out Soups and Sugar For The Red Cross

Cibu, Rumania, Oct. 20.—The picture of a king, with a linen duster covering his uniform, ladling out soup and sugar to his hungry people is one that will live long in the memories of the girls on duty at the American Red Cross supply depot here.

It was a busy afternoon, for the crowd of peasants seeking food was unusually large and the small number of American girls were hard put to it to keep the line moving. The heat was intense and the little group of workers who had been on their feet for hours seemed about to collapse when suddenly from the doorway came a man's voice saying:

"I am ready for work, girls. What can you give me to do?"

Bent over a barrel of cocoa, Miss Ruby M. Applebee, of Minneapolis, straightened up to see from whom had come this offer of much needed aid and beheld before her King Ferdinand of Rumania, who by this time had advanced into the room.

Kings meant little then when hungry people were to be fed, so Miss Applebee suggested that the king first try his hand at the salmon and jam. But the king as a distributing agent for the American Red Cross almost wrecked the proceedings, for his subjects could not quite grasp the idea of their king standing behind a counter and passing out canned goods. DEMON RUM DEVoured Ship, Imperilling 355

New York, Oct. 20.—Prohibitionists may make campaign use of the burning of the liner Venezia, a French vessel, at sea. When the liner, Chicago, also French, arrived here after rescuing the 355 men, women and children on the Venezia without loss of life, it was learned that rum destroyed the ship on which they were traveling from Havana to St. Nazaire.

The Venezia had a cargo of 230 tons of the demon in her forward hold. There the fire started and the casks of rum burst and flooded the ship with flames. Those on board were forced to take to the lifeboats.

Perhaps the most impressive feature of this sea and the blackened landscape are the trees. Gaunt and stark stripped of every limb and branch, they stand out against the skyline, so many of them attacked by the big guns into mud or dust, without one vestige remaining to mark their location. This is true of the villages, too. Some of these villages have disappeared, although for a time they were suspected had not a Belgian major volunteered the information that here his battalion had once held its main street for three days.

Many live shells still remain in the fields, and to-day as a party was passing within a few miles of Dixmude they were startled by the explosion of one of these "ducks."

Reconstruction is going forward. Near the shore, a few of the Belgian children who has returned to the site of his former home is a disabed tank, a shell having ripped through its side and exploded in the interior.

From the profile of a tank to that humble shack, stretches a clothes line, and on given days the family washing is hung out to dry. Children of that family play in the broken tank, enacting, as they have often heard related, the grim story of the battle. That is, they play when they are not at work. For Belgium is using even its children to rebuild its homes.

Japan Has Lost Half Her Trade in China

Washington, Oct. 20.—Japanese merchants in China have lost 40 to 50 per cent of their trade because of the anti-Japanese boycott. This applies to retailers rather than to wholesalers. A small report received here indicates that the boycott is well organized and persistent, although for a time it was presumed it would be spasmodic.

CLEANING UP THE WAR ZONE

German Prisoners and Allied Civilians Engaged in Task

Dixmude, Belgium, Oct. 20.—Scattered over the low-lying country between Ypres and Dixmude, scene of many a battle, are thousands of men prisoners under guard of British and Belgian soldiers as well as civilians who have been called into the gigantic task of clearing up the battlefields and once more making it fit for habitation. They are sacking shells, recovering brass cases and burying the dead. There is a military efficiency about their work and the progress they are making is most gratifying for all the governments concerned.

One may still see the ruins of many British and Belgian tanks, caught in the German shell fire, now twisted and broken wrecks. Now they are rusted and neglected, mere shells of the once powerful machines which went into action. Some of them are almost buried in the mud, others hang precariously on the edge of the battlefield, while still others stand high in the fields where they were abandoned by such of their crews as survived. Many of them are torn and riddled as though their heavily armored sides were little more than paper.

Perhaps the most impressive feature of this sea and the blackened landscape are the trees. Gaunt and stark stripped of every limb and branch, they stand out against the skyline, so many of them attacked by the big guns into mud or dust, without one vestige remaining to mark their location. Black War Bread in Berlin Doomed by Wheat Prospects

Berlin, Oct. 20.—On the strength of the present prospects of an early improvement in wheat deliveries, Berlin, in a few weeks will be able to take definite leave of the black, party-tasting aerobically produced morning gouches and indigestion.

The new loaf which bakers will provide will be baked with enthusiasm of Greater Berlin, were clamoring for food, some of its officials and employees were carrying on a wholesale trafficking in foodstuffs bought by the municipality but diverted into other channels by the war profiteers, according to the story told in the following paragraphs. The time when householders will be done entirely on the basis of a day's work by persons who are expert in the tasks is not far off.

Such is the belief of Mrs. A. H. Quinn, who has made a special study of the so-called servant problem. Her paper on "The Vanishing Servant" was read at a meeting of the Woman's Club of Cynwyd.

Servantless homes began to appear in the first year of the war, according to Mrs. Quinn, and have increased so rapidly that they now are the common thing. The causes for the decrease in the number of servants are given as the suspension of immigration during the war, the entrance of women into war work, the social stigma attached to the name of "domestic servant," lack of standardization in the quality of work and the pay and the lack of regulation of hours.
