A New, Romantic Serial Dealing With the Absorbing Problem of a Girl Wife

Narrow Lscape "I was at my work, my limbs be-came numb, I got dizy and faint, my ears seemed stopped up. I had been troubled with gas on my stom-ach and severe bloating after meals. Doctors failed to help me. One dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, rec-ommended by the corner druggist, proved a life-saver to me. I am continuing with it with splendid re-sults." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catar-rhal mucus from "be intestinal tract and allays the ir- imation which auses practical , as stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. feebly. "Virginia's going off somewhere.

"Virginia's going off somewhere. I—I've got to get away." "You could come here, Phoebe." "Oh, Anne-please! I want a holiday." said Phoebe in a tremu-lous voice. "I want to get away--with Neal. Won't you? Won't you, please, let me have this little bit of happiness? I'll choke if I don't get out of town! Won't you make it possible for me to have this little bit of happiness--this little bit?" "All right," I replied uneasily. "I'll go." "I'll go. (To Be Continued.)

"Desiree was her ideal of what a girl should be. Jeanne had the belief that you would be happier married than single—happier and safer. She knew you would not marry a rich woman unless you had money of your own. She wanted you to marry nobody but Desiree. So she planned to leave you all she had, and bring about the marriage lul ATTA

"How does that happen?" he asked. "Be told me about it in her last illness. I did not think then that she was very ill-for she did not seem so, and I did not know how weak her heart was. But, anyway, in a moment of confidence she told me of it." "I did not suppose anyone knew of it—except Andrews and myself," David said. "Nobody else did, except myself-and one other person." "Dow was that?" he inquired curiously. "David sait up straight, the color leaving his face. "Good heavens! Did Aunt Jeanne tell her?" Miss Bristol nodded. Giving evidence of a real cheer-fulness, Mrs. B. Craig, 5412 Larcas-ter ave., Phila, says: "I suffered from catarrh of the stomach and was weak and run down. There were discharges from my throat and nose, and I had distress from the gas that formed from fermentation. I started to take Tanlac. It surely helped me wonderfully." Tanlac seems not only to relieve that hacking cough, sniffling, wat-ery eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, full hend, and remove the catarrhal excretions, but it is blood-improv-ing, appetite-giving, food-assimilat-ing, nerve-quieting, strengthening and upbuilding. The genuine J. I. Gore Co. Tanlac is here sold by all leading druggists.

For sale at the Gorgas dfug stores, 16 North Third street, Harrisburg, Pa., and leading druggists everywhere. Manu-factured by Frederick Heil-man Co., Johnstown, Pa.

The skin is then too large in area to fit such tissue smoothly. It wrinkles or sags. To remedy this condition, there's nothing so effective, so quick-acting, as a simple wash lotion easily made at home. Just get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite at your druggist's, and a half pint of witch hazel mix the two and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and solidifies the underlying tissues —which, of course, smooths out the lines and draws in the sagsing skin. It also stimulates capillery circula-tion, bringing natural color to faded checks.
