signs, keys and "free rythm" in contradistinction to "strict time" were clearly explained and the fundamental rules of chanting given. The musician told how so many modernists are attracted by these strange scale formations and how writers like Debussy, Scriabine, Bantock, Schoenberg and others, by retaining the Gregorian scales and adding to them or eliminating from them have writen masterpieces thus inviting music lovers to study these forms.

Miss Ser Seven Valleys, Oct. 25.-To aid a destitue fellow-lodgeman of Harris-burg, members of Zion Lodge, No. The talk on Gregorian music given in Cathedral Hall this week by Joseph D. Brodeur was largely attended. Mr. Brodeur was largely attended. Mr. Brodeur, who is organist and choirmaster at St. Patrick's Cathedral, presented his subject in a manner both interesting and scholarly. He raid in part:

"This music is especially adapted to the expression of prayer and all deep emotion. Its period of perfecton, from 600 to 1600, found the masters making it part of their study. To-day, its revival calls forth some opposition ,mostly the result of poor rendition. It can be marred or enhanced simply by interpretation, for after all," said Mr. Brodeur, "the life or soul of all music depends on expression."

Modes, psalm-tones, notation, of over 100 feet.

The Wonder Gas"

Put a Little "Old Time Pep" In Your Motor

Remember, a few years ago, the kind of Gas you used to get-how it made your motor buzz along at a regular clip, up hill and down dale? .! And the carbureation wasn't anything to brag about either, was it?

Today, with the grade of gasoline on the market and the scientific basis on which carbureation has been placed, you can't get the result you could a few years ago.

But there is a gas-CRYSTAL PEP-on the market that will work wonders with your car-give it that old time pep, and then some. It is the wonder gas. It adds miles to the gallon, lessens carbon, and gives the motor that lull-a-by tune that good motorists know so well.

CRYSTAL PEP is gasoline with an added ingredient that gives it that extra kick, increases combustion and lessens the wear and tear on the motor. Sold at the same price as gaso-
