

BOWLERS ARE SHOWING GREAT EARLY SEASON FORM--BASKETBALL SOON IN STYLE

VOLLEYBALL PROMISES TO BECOME ONE OF LEADING ATHLETIC INDOOR GAMES

Now that volleyball has secured a strong hold on Harrisburg, there is to be one of the greatest seasons in the history of this indoor game. Through the efforts of the Zembo Patrol team the public has been brought into this sport. Heretofore it was confined to gymnastiums and athletic clubs. Here is what John Swank, sports editor of the Lancaster Intelligencer has to say about this sport:

"Volleyball has been benefited by the war possibly more than any other sport on the athletic calendar. Before the late unpleasantness on the other side of the brine, which put Willy Hohenzollern in the discard, volleyball was thought of only as a girls game. Now it gives promise of becoming one of the greatest indoor, as well as outdoor sports.

"Uncle Sam saw the virtues of the game and leagues were organized in the various army camps throughout the country. Even on the other side the game was played to a great extent. Volleyball always has been on the list of gymnasium sports, but was never very popular with the grownups, the youngsters being the only ones who played it to any great extent. During the war, however, grownups took up the game, which found it to their liking with the result that teams are now being organized in every city in the United States.

Harrisburg Volleyball Mad

"Harrisburg has gone volleyball mad, and at least six or eight leagues have been formed. Lodges, clubs and other organizations have organized teams and spirited contests are the result. Lancaster is at present only represented by one team, but the sport is one of the most popular on the calendar at the local Y. M. C. A., and it is thought that other clubs and organizations will take up the game.

"Those who are not familiar with the game are of the belief that it was made up by some person who thought that any person can play it the same as football, baseball and basketball and other sports, but to play it as it should be played requires a great deal of practice. Like in all athletic games, a certain system must be used on the attack and defense to make a team strong. Teamwork is the main requirement for a successful volleyball team, and to gain this essential much practice is required.

Individual Points Not Scored

"Volleyball has one distinction from any other athletic game, in that it is impossible to tell which individual scored the point. Mainly it is the opponent who scores the point for the opposing team, because he fails to return the ball. Points are counted, of course, but no individual gets the credit for scoring the point as in other athletic games. Another point in favor of volleyball is that young and old alike can play the game without fear of injury, as in other branches of athletics. It is for this reason possibly that volleyball is fast coming to the front and exponents of the game claim it will be one of the major sports in the near future."

Beck Is Looking Better in Penn State Lineup; Anxious to Defeat Penn

State College, Pa., Oct. 28.—To defeat Penn on November 1 is the aim of every Penn State football player and coach, and with this object in view, the work of the past week has been harder than at any time during the season. It is fully realized that Penn has a strong team this year and that they will be hard to beat next Saturday, but every Penn State man is determined to do his best to carry the Blue and White to victory.

The Dartmouth defeat was not unexpected, for while it was believed that Penn State had a fighting chance to win, the coaches were not very optimistic. The team play of the Blue and White eleven had not been sufficiently developed at the time to combat the machine-like playing of the big Green team. As was expected, Penn State's line proved no match for Dartmouth's veteran aggression and as a result, the Blue and White backfield was given no chance to show anything.

Several new men have been showing up well of late, among them being Black, Bear and Bentz. Beck, the former halfback, is at last beginning to learn the two-point line play, and he may be the very man to bolster the line. Mackenzie, the red-haired center who has been on the sidelines with a bad knee for almost three weeks, is again back on the job and he will be a liability to keep off the team. Rauch and Osborn, two former centers, are being tried as guards and their work has also been improving.

Joe Choynski Explains What Real Kidney Punch Means to Ring Fighters

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 28.—"One punch that the fighters of to-day do not know how to use is the kidney punch," said the veteran Joe Choynski, recently.

To us old timers it is amusing to see the man who is so busy about the kidney punch when some third rater reaches over the shoulder of the man he is trying to slama him with the open hand on the back. Ad Wolgast, a world's champion, was supposed to know how to use the kidney punch. But even Wolgast did not use it properly.

"The man who introduced the kidney punch was Danny Needham, and there's never been another man who could use the punch as Danny could. The kidney punch is a jab and not a swing. And it doesn't land on a man's back, it lands on the soft part of the side—just above the belt. One kidney punch or two, though painful, will not be very effective.

BIG BILL READY FOR LOCAL FANS

Young Mahoney Meets Sammy Schiff at Steelton on Thursday

YOUNG MAHONEY

Joe Barrett, manager of the Olympia A. C., of Steelton, announced last night that he had completed his entire bill for his show Thursday night. In all there will be thirty rounds of boxing, a ten-round feature bout, and four six-round bouts. The feature bout is of great interest to local sports, as Sammy Schiff, Harrisburg's leading boxer, will meet Young Mahoney, the clever Baltimore lightweight, who has won a great many friends in this city.

This will be Schiff's first start this year in a regular fight. Sammy has always volunteered his services willingly for patriotic purposes, and he has kept in great condition in that way. The Baltimorean has improved greatly during the past year. The special bout of six rounds is between the two best bantams ever paired in this section, Kid Richmond, from the same stable as Mahoney, and boxing partner to Kid Williams, will meet Lancaster's pride, Jackie Parkes, the stable mate of Tim Dronoy.

Young Lehman, the local wrestler, will make his initial appearance as a fighter against Laurence King, the former overseas soldier. "Red" Singer, the pride of Dauphin, will meet Chester Rowan, of Steelton, while two other Steelton boys, Ivory Eschelman and Gordi Carchadi, will open the show.

Kid Williams, the Baltimore Tiger, who proved several weeks ago, before Barrett's club, that there is a reason for the world's champion, Pete Herman, to refuse him another match, will come to Steelton with Mahoney and Richmond, to act as their advisers.

CAGE GAMES TO START SATURDAY

Manager Gordon Ford Is Picking His Team This Week For First Battle

BENNY KLINE

Basketball will get a start Saturday night. The Harrisburg Independents will meet the St. Elizabeth five. Manager Gordon Ford is having a daily practice this week in order to be able to pick a team for the first battle. That the local lineup will be strong is not doubted. What puzzles Manager Ford is what players to pick. He will always have at his call good men.

This year will find Benny Kline, who was one of the Rosewood champions in 1918, as Manager Ford regards Kline to join the squad of candidates prior to the night of the opening workout of the Independents several weeks ago, and in the practices that have been held since that time Kline has been showing excellent form.

He is a rather fast player, and "follows the ball" continually, but his floor work is good, and he is by no means a bad shot. It is probable that he will be played at guard should he get in the opening tilt.

Kline recently organized an amateur five with the intention of getting a schedule of out-of-town games during the winter. This will be carried through, despite his connections with the Independents, and he will play with the amateur organization on nights other than Saturdays or holidays.

Daily practices are to be conducted during the coming week for the contest with the St. Elizabeth quintet next Saturday night. The Philadelphiaans are said to be a trifle stronger than they were last year, and if this is the case the contest should be a good one.

STELTON STAR LOOMS UP AS STAR FOR LEBANON VALLEY

Annville, Pa., Oct. 28.—Although tired out by their long trip to Clarksburg, W. Va., and by the strenuous game which they had there with West Virginia Wesleyan, Lebanon Valley's football men are more than ever eager for scrimmage and practice that they might redeem their West Virginia defeat by conquering the Johns Hopkins eleven when they meet them at Baltimore next Saturday. Their zeal for a workout last night, however, got them nothing for rain interfered with the scheduled workout.

Despite his injuries Roman played a wonderful game, hitting the Wesleyan line with remarkable vigor until he was compelled to quit the game in the last quarter when he sprained his ankle. However, the star of the game for Lebanon Valley was easily Beyman, the Steelton boy who has been performing up to the mark at left tackle ever since he joined the team. Beyman is per-

Volleyball Practice Starts Tonight For Local Elks

Elks who have taken up volleyball will meet this week for a try-out of candidates. A court will be arranged on the second floor of the Elks' Club and arrangements will be made to have daily practice. A good coach will be secured as there are a number of star players in Harrisburg lodge, and it is expected that within the next two weeks the Elks' team will be ready for business.

Games will be arranged with Lancaster and other Elks teams, with the local police, Zembo Patrol, and Businessmen's teams from the local Y. All candidates are requested to report to-night at 8 o'clock sharp for first practice.

MIDDLETOWN MAKES KICK

Middletown football team was handed a raw deal from Belmont Jr. team of Harrisburg. Middletown went to the expense of advertising the field in good condition, selling tickets and had a big crowd on the field and was ready to play. Then word was received from Harrisburg that they would not be down. We don't think we had a square deal.

This was to be our first game at home. We played two games away from home—Mt. Joy and Highspire—and lost both, but we were counting on getting even. I understand we are not the only ones they disappointed this way. Mr. Davies should at least let the team who he is going to play know in time, so they could get another game.

We would like to hear from some team who will not disappoint us for next Saturday, as we have an open date. CLARENCE WEIRICH, Phone Rescue-Hose Co., 123 Brown street, Middletown, Pa.

Marysville Boosters Meet Tonight to Talk Baseball

Marysville, Pa., Oct. 28.—The Marysville Baseball Association of the Dauphin-Perry League will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Municipal building for the purpose of reorganization. An entire new corps of officers will be selected. It is not expected that a field manager will be elected for some time.

The present association, organized at the beginning of this year, has been most successful in conducting the affairs of a Marysville team. Every bill has been met, grounds have been rented for the approaching season and a comfortable balance remains in the treasury.

Preliminary plans are now being made for the 1920 season. Arrangements are now being made to purchase new uniforms for the entire team for the season. The contract will not be let, however, until the early months of next year.

FIGHT BLEACHERS COLLAPSE

Montreal, Oct. 28.—Collapse of temporary bleachers on the stage of a theater here brought a boxing bout between Eugene Brossenau, former Canadian amateur weight champion, and Johnny Howard, of New York, to a sudden close in the eighth round of a ten-round match and probably saved Howard from a knockout. The stage was left in darkness as the electric wires supplying it were carried away in the collapse. No one was injured.

MILLERSBURG WANTS GAMES

Millersburg, Oct. 28.—The Millersburg High School football team have an open date for Saturday, November 1 and would like to arrange a game for that date with an out-of-town team whose average weight is 130 to 135 pounds. The games to be played at Millersburg.
