WARM FEELING FOR TOWN OPENS HEART

Philadelphian, Musically Gifted, Presents Pictures to Chambersburg High School; Gives Burial Plot to the Grand Army Post in Cemetery

Chambersburg, Oct. 29.—"Jap" Kline, of Philadelphia, who was born here and spent his boyhood days in town during which time he acquired the rudiments of a musical education which afterward developed into artistry on the piano and a career of high success in music, has once again shown his partiality for his old home town. Mr. Kline visited a year or more ago inspected the new high school building and remarked that no pictures adorned its rooms, halls or corridors. He returned that Philadelphia and sent here several large and valuable steel engravings, handsomely framed, with a request that they be hung on the high school walls. Mr. Kline also added other beautiful pictures to the collection until the number reached thirty-three, and now he has added three more superb pictures, making a total of thirty-six, which have been named "The J. W. Kline Collection."

PRESSES CLAIMS OF HIS COLLEGE

President of Franklin and Marshall Says Institution Needs $1,000,000

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 29.—Declaring that Franklin and Marshall College is in need of $1,000,000 for greater efficiency, although that amount will not be asked, Dr. Henry H. Apple, president of the college, discussed "The Strengthening of Our Educational Institutions" at the sectional conference of the Forward Movement of the Reformed church in the United States, which opened yesterday morning in the First Reformed church.

Dr. John C. Bowman, of the Theological Seminary, who spoke on "The Better Support and Conservation of the Ministry," made several remarkable statements. One was that only 12 young men out of all the Reformed churches of the city and county are studying for the ministry, and he deplored the fact.

No Criminal Cases in Adams Term of Court

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—With the Adams county court scheduled to begin its regular November session on November 11 there is no case yet filed with the clerk of the courts a criminal case to be tried. In the memory of the oldest citizen of the county has a term of court passed by without a criminal case, usually a number of them, but it is altogether likely this occurrence is due to the passing away of liquor. A number of civil suits are on the list for trial, but here, too, an exception is noted, as there has been only one new case entered since the August court, the others being all continued cases.
