

Asks "Big Bertha" For War Trophy

Paris — Paris, for five years the chief goal of an invading and ruthless foe, years for a memento of the war that shall be significant at once of the demoniac ingenuity and the repulse of the Germans. Paris desires to be possessed of a "Big Bertha," one of those super-engines of destruction with which the city was bombarded at a range of seventy miles.

Germany has been asked repeatedly to yield a "Big Bertha" but has always dodged a direct answer. Only Germans know how many of these huge guns were employed against Paris or where they are or if they have been buried or destroyed. No allied controlling mission has ever seen one. All that remains visibly of "Big Bertha" is the emplacement at Crepy-en-Laonnais, north of Paris, whence were hurled the great missiles that killed women and children and battered churches.

Paris does not wish the "Big Bertha" to be set up here but to be mouned again on its old emplacement. Then it is proposed that the city acquire the famous little wood at Crepy by popular subscription and present it to the nation. Thither the school children of generations to come could make pilgrimages and offer pious thanks for France's deliverance from an enemy so formidable.

WOMAN BREAKS ARM
Lewistown, Pa., Oct. 31.—Mrs. G. W. Swartz, an aged resident of this place, slipped on a wet board walk in the yard at her home and fell, breaking her left arm.
