Middletown
100TH YEAR OF GREAT SERVICE

Hundreds Attend Centennial of St. Peter's Sunday School in Historic Church

Middletown, Nov. 3.—Old St. Peter's Lutheran Church was the rallying point yesterday of hundreds who revere the place as an early outpost of religion with a glorious history. As long ago as 1867 the hundredth jubilee of the famous house of worship was celebrated with impressive services, General Simon Cameron, James Young and other distinguished citizens having served on the committee in charge of the centennial arrangements, and yesterday the hundredth anniversary of the Sunday school of St. Peter's was commemorated with an entire day of special exercises. It was a day of unusual interest, morning, afternoon and evening, and many prominent Lutherans were present to enjoy the occasion. Descendants of the founders of the school took part in the delightful interchanges of the day.

In the morning the pastor, the Rev. Fuller Bergstresser, occupied the pulpit, and at the evening service the Rev. J. B. Baker, of Gettysburg, delivered an able sermon appropriate to the occasion.

It was in the afternoon, however, that the centennial program was observed, consisting of special orchestral and vocal numbers, addresses and a jubilee centenary offering.

E. S. Gerberich, the superintendent, presided and the same efficiency which characterizes his public and private activities was noted on this memorable historic occasion.

The Rev. Dr. H. C. Holloway, for several years the pastor of St. Peter's, offered the anniversary prayer, an impressive and beautiful petition, and at the close invoked the blessing of God upon the school.

The pastor's address was brief but appropriate in its eloquent references to the school's history and its marvelous development.

Mr. Gerberich then introduced E. J. Stackpole, of Harrisburg, as one whom he had learned to know well and appreciate through association with him while Mr. Stackpole was chairman of the sixth district, comprising ten Central Pennsylvania

RAT FIGURES
London, Nov. 3.—In 10 years the descendance of a single pair of rats if allowed to multiply undisturbed would number 48,319,698,842,030,344,720, according to figures prepared for the Board of Agriculture by a well known scientist. This calculation is an incident of the country-wide campaign being waged against rats which are said to do a yearly damage in the United Kingdom amounting to $200,000,000.

counties, in the United War Work campaign of last year.

Mr. Stackpole warmly congratulated the school on its remarkable record covering a period of a hundred years, and dwelt upon the fact that the influence for good of such a school would be felt by many generations to come. He spoke of the value of Sunday school training and suggested that the morale of the American Army in Europe could be traced in thousands of cases to the teachings of devoted Christian men and women in the Sunday schools.

The speaker complimented the school on its fine record of service in the war, and had no doubt that the forty-five or more young men represented by the stars on its service flag would endorse his statement regarding the sustaining strength of the school's backing during the world conflict.

Mr. Stackpole told of the splendid work among the mountain children of the South in which he is interested and how the Sunday school missionaries in the rugged hills had been responsible for bringing into touch with civilization and a religious atmosphere many boys who had later become able and helpful leaders, living monuments of consecrated Christian effort.

Many speak

The speaker advanced the thought that in the Sunday schools the country had an effective agency for overcoming the unrighteous propaganda of unrest and discontent, the alarming aftermath of the war. These girls and boys, the men and women of to-morrow, through the training here, he said, "would be prepared to combat the impossible and malignant theories imported from other lands and thereby safeguard the ideals and institutions on which America stands. He appealed to the young people present to fit themselves for the "conflicts of peace" and to be worthy of the splendid heritage vouchsafed to them.

The Rev. James Cunningham, in a pleasing address, conveyed the greetings of the Middletown Ministerial Association and spoke of the fine co-operation of all the religious bodies without regard to denominational lines.

The Rev. Dr. Singmaster, president of the Gettysburg Theological Seminary, was an unexpected guest and was urged to say a word. Always a popular speaker, he delighted the large audience with some interesting reminiscences of Middletown folk and pointed out the responsibility of the Sunday school in this crucial hour of the nation's trial. It was a patriotic appeal to be steadfast in support of the principles upon which the government rests.

Mr. Gerberich also called out of the audience Croll Keller, of Harrisburg, a grandson of John Croll, who extended in a thoughtful address the greetings of the Zion Lutheran Church, the school of which he is superintendent and which was organized by the Rev. Dr. J. G. Lochman about the same time the same beloved pastor established St. Peter's school here in 1819.

A beautiful closing incident was the presentation of large baskets of flowers by the superintendent in behalf of the school to Miss Elizabeth Croll, who for more than sixty years has been a worker in the juvenile department and also to her sister, Anna M. Croll, for more than fifty years school treasurer.

The present officers of this famous Sunday school are: Honorary superintendent, S. C. Peters; acting superintendent, E. S. Gerberich; assistant superintendent, B. E. Seltzer; Dr. D. P. Deatrick, C. A. Ulrich; treasurer, M. H. Gingrich; financial secretaries, H. S. Fisher, John W. Few, Jr.; recording secretary, C. E. Gerberich; assistant recording secretaries, J. Howard Seltzer, W. J. Brown; librarian, M. H. Gingrich; assistant librarians, Fred Eshenauer, Rufus Schradley, Nelsy Ulrich, Hurl Schwann; pianist, Mrs. A. Hoffman; assistant pianists, Miss Elizabeth Seltzer, Miss Betty R. Croll; honorary superintendent elementary division, Miss Elizabeth C. Croll; acting superintendent elementary division, Mrs. D. P. Deatrick; principal junior department, Mrs. E. Seltzer; principal primary department, Mrs. D. P. Deatrick; principal beginners' department, Mrs. Fuller Bergstresser; superintendent home department, Sister Lydia; superintendent church roll, Miss Sarah Fisher; superintendent teachers training department, the Rev. Fuller Bergstresser.

The parish house adjoining St. Peter's Church is about to be converted into a community center for the extended activities of the school.

Boy Scouts Helped In Big Tasks of the War

Pennsylvania Boy Scouts to the number of 34,527 participated in practically every at home activity of Pennsylvania in helping to win the World War. Statistics regarding the valuable part played by the Boy Scouts of this Commonwealth during 1917 and 1918 are made public to-day by the Pennsylvania War History Commission from information so far received.

Including the scout officials, local councils, courts of honor and troop committee men, the Boy Scout total for Pennsylvania almost reached 50,000. The 34,527 boys themselves, however, are credited by the officials with practically all the work. They secured 13,871 subscribers for $2,323,950 to the First Liberty Loan; 51,764 subscribers for $9,998,100 to the Second Loan; 96,777 subscribers for $11,222,275 for the Third Loan, and 135,790 subscribers for $27,374,480 for the Fourth Loan. That totals practically 350,000 subscribers for $50,000,000, and does not include the Victory Loan. In addition, up to April 10th, 1918, the Boy Scouts of Pennsylvania had sold 246,984 War Saving Stamps for more than $4,000,000.

Julius Forstmann, Accused in Germany's Wool Plot, Exonerated

New York, Nov. 3.—Julius Forstmann and the firm of Forstmann & Hoffman Company, who were accused of being involved in Germany's "wool plot" exposed by the State Department's discovery early in 1918 of the "Hans Smith letters" the imperial government have been declared innocent of all blame. In a letter to their counsel, Morton E. Lewis, former State Attorney General, reversed his opinion by which on April 3, 1918, he approved a subordinate's finding that they were disloyal citizens.

The Forstmann & Hoffman Company was mentioned among other persons and firms in the Smith correspondence dealings with a plot to buy large amounts of wool here for war shipment to Germany. Hans Smith and Heinrich F. Albert, representatives of the Deutscher Bank and secretly representing Germany, were exposed in their war operations here by the State Department.

CITY TREASURER

Served as City Treasurer for the years 1916 and 1917.

During the above period, by careful investment of the money in his custody, he earned $12,84.62 in interest. This was a direct benefit to the tax-payers as the above amount was used to help defray the running expenses of the City Government.

In addition to the above, he was the first School Treasurer to invest all the funds of the School District, and by so doing, he increased the interest receipts $4,051.73 for two years.

He was the first City Treasurer to send City Tax notices to every property owner. This was done at an added expense to him, as it entailed the employment of additional help. During his term, in addition to devoting his entire time and attention to the office, he employed three clerks at his own expense.

FOR SHERIFF
J. CLYDE MYTON

YOUR TYPE OF SHERIFF

The present-day sheriff of the East is not a drooping mustached, somber-crowned individual lugging a shotgun about on his hip, fierce of eye and stern of countenance. Less and less has he been called upon to head deputies in putting down disorder. He has become rather an administrative officer and yet after all he is the county's police commander.

For such a dual role, the occupant must possess sanity and intelligence, as well as courage and alertness. In these respects, the candidacy of J. Clyde Myton deserves to engage the attention of the voter.

Mr. Myton is one of those calm men who knows little of the feeling of excitement. His composure, as a sheriff, would be of very definite value should conditions develop in which men lose their balance. Dauphin County has been spared such moments yet there may come times here as elsewhere when a determined, just and courageous official was order's greatest safeguard. Neither the hot-head of youth nor the senility of years are desirable in such a place in such times.

In purely administrative matters Mr. Myton has a record that commends itself. For years the success of the city's annual automobile shows has been due largely to his management and direction. As secretary of the Motor Club of Harrisburg he has helped make that organization the vigorous supporter of better roads and the vigilant detective of violations of the law whether that violation has been the motorist or the public official excessively fond of his fees. In the many annual outings for orphans, which the club gives, Mr. Myton has taken the initiative and the responsibility.

This same ability Mr. Myton gladly offered to the Nation during the war. In Liberty Bond campaigns he was the office director giving virtually all his time to the work and manifesting a capacity for labor that contributed much to the success of these drives in this community.

These are resources which a people, seeking efficient public service, should expect and be glad to find in its candidates. Mr. Myton has them. He offers them to the people in no small sense of earnestness for the office of sheriff but as part of the same spirit in which he tendered himself to the Nation and the other public interests with which he is affiliated. Such a man cannot justly be brushed aside for partisan or other reasons.
