Washington Military Observ ers Explain Withdrawal From Omsk

By Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 7.—The withdrawal of Admiral Kolchak Omsk does not portend a general retreat of the all-Russian forces such as was seen last summer, official advices received in Washington declare. Military observers in reporting the movement characterize it as purely local in character, although the front affected might seem at first glance to have been extensive. glance to have been extensive. To Rectify Line Only Attributing the withdrawal directly to the recent evacuation of the Czech troops from the Siberian front, military experts in Washington, who have been instructed to watch the situation closely, expressed the belief that the backward movement would stop as soon as Kolchak had rectified his line to conform with the terrain over which he is operating and to cover the dangerous "break" left when the Czechs were removed.

The immediate danger to Kolchak, officials here believe, does not lie in the military situation but rather in the fact that he is forced to deal with subordinates who can not lend him their whole-hearted support, and in the possibility that assistance from the outside hitherto given the Yudenitch army operating against Petrograd may at any moment be depleted or withdrawn entirely.

With regard to the Russian situation as a whole, however, military and diplomatic officials see no reason to change their optimistic forecast that the Bolsheviki regime is ended.

By Associated Press.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Notice was served on Germany by the Allied and Associated Powers in a note and accompanying protocol, forwarded last Saturday, that the Treaty of Peace would not go into force until Germany executes to the satisfaction of the Allied and Associated Powers obligations assumed under the armistice convention and additional agreements.

The note, made public by the State Department, provides that the German government shall send representatives to Paris November 10 to make final arrangements for the putting into effect of the Treaty. But the note specifies that before the Treaty can be made effective through a process verbal of the deposit of the ratifications, the German representatives shall obligate their nation to carry out the terms of the protocol.

The protocol contains a number of obligations assumed by Germany in the armistice convention and complementary agreements which have not been tarry agreements which have been the subject of urgent representations. These include the withdrawal of German troops from Russian territory, and the delivery of certain German tonage.

When shown a picture of McIntyre in a newspaper he seemed quite agitated.

Berlin Commander Says He Is Monarchist

Berlin, Nov. 7.—Colonel Reinhard, commander of the Berlin brigade of the National Defense Army, is quoted in the World Stage as declaring himself a monarchist. The army officer had denied the authenticity of the interview but Erich Dombrowski, of the Tageblatt, avers that he obtained the interview and that the Colonel said:

"I make no bones of the fact I am a monarchist. When one has served the King and Kaiser for thirty years, one suddenly cannot say from to-morrow I am a Republican. That is simply impossible But do not be afraid. I consider it impossible to resurrect the monarchy for the time between the services of the monarchy for the time between the services of the servi

But do not be arraid. I consider it impossible to resurrect the monarchy for the time being. The Entente forbids it. But what can happen in ten years, how the conditions may have altered, no one can tell. Naturally, a royal or imperial government as we had before the war will not do. But a democratic monarchy is conceivable."

ENGLAND MAY ADOPT 24-HOUR TIME METHOD

London, Nov. 7.—A committee has been appointed by the government to report on the advisability of adopting the twenty-four-hour method of expressing timic which was put into effect about twelve years ago in Western Canada and which is said to have many advocates in the United States. Italy for a long time has used the system and it is extensively employed on the Continent for railway, postal and telegraph purposes. Astronomers always use it.
