DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief. Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable. 3c and 6c jars; hospital size $2.50.

SEE BOLSHIEVKS LOSE IN RUSSIA BY DECEMBER 1

British Military Experts Look For Definite End of Russian Campaign

London, Nov. 12.—British military experts believe the Russian Bolsheviks cannot withstand the onslaughts of their enemies longer than two months and that something definite is likely to happen in the Russian campaign by December 1. It is pointed out that the Bolsheviks have employed German tactics in moving men from one front to another with more or less success but that recently each success has been a little less marked than the previous one and that it is reasonable to suppose that such tactics in the end must break down unless one enemy is completely subdued. When the Bolsheviks centered against Kolchak some months ago and drove him back 700 miles, their southern front was left weak, whereupon General Denikin started his advance which has resulted in clearing up South Russia. The Bolsheviks have withdrawn many men from the Kolchak front, giving the Admiral a chance to advance. In the meantime the western front has become a menace to Bolsheviks. The British experts believe peace was broached to the Baltic states because the Bolsheviks realized they no longer could hold back their enemies on three sides and maintain the force in northern Russia also.

Soldier Who Sold Paris Subways and Hospitals to French Held as Gunman

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—Internationally known as the man who sold the Paris subways to Parisians and who let a trail of swindled Frenchmen mourning their loss of thousands of francs, Irwin Bender was arrested as an alleged gunman in this city yesterday. Bender's presence in this city, too, reveals that he has escaped from Leavenworth, where he was sentenced for twenty-eight years, after he was captured in Paris through the duplicity of his inamorata, said to be a major's wife with whom he eloped to Spain. Bender, who has the name of Harry Thomas was arrested with Joe Gans. They were taken into custody when Policeman Fred Clarke, formerly a sergeant in the provost guard in Paris, recognized Bender as the man who had started France and the entire A. E. F. through his spectacular swindles of trusting Frenchmen.

Triest, 28, who roomed on Fifty-third near Market street, but gave the police her husband's address at 6105 Warrington street. They registered at the hotel late Monday night as Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Miss Beatrice MacCue Pleases With Concert

Miss Beatrice MacCue, contralto, of New York City, gave a song recital last evening at the Lyric Memorial M. E. Church. She is a singer of splendid attainments; with a glorious voice of sympathetic quality, she played a fine accompaniment. Her entire program was made up of compositions of Americans, with the exception of two numbers, and these were interspersed with the balance of the program. Some of the notably fine numbers were: "Ah, Love, But a Day," by Gilbert; "The Artist from LaGranda"; "A Spirit Flower"; "Sea Dreams," by Metcalf; a fine new setting of "In Flanders Fields," by Jules Jordan, and "Robin, Robin, Sing Me a Song," by Spess. Miss MacCue was obliged to add two extras and these included "The Star," by Rogers, and "If You Have Sweetheart," by Hawley. All these were rendered with fine interpretative power and artistic skill. She has an abundance of vitality in her singing and a very charming personality. Miss Beatrice MacCue played very fine accompaniments. Miss Margaretta Kennedy, cellist, has never appeared to better advantage than she did in this concert. She secured a fine, sonorous, warm tone from her instrument, which she handles with technical skill of a high order. Miss Alda Kennedy played efficient accompaniments for her sister. John Whittenburg, pianist, was the other assisting artist, and he demonstrated his fine musicianship and violinistic ability to a very high degree. He has a good bowing arm and secures a wonderfully smooth, rich, sustained tone. This was especially noticeable in the Ave Maria, a beautiful piece which he played with fine and verse. Miss Betty Cooll played excellent accompaniments. MAX ROBERTSON
