Threatened Strike May

Threatened Strike May Not Occur on Monday

Philadelphia, Nov. 15. — Indications are that the threatened strike of fifty stationary engineers which, if successful, would have demoralized the 'Pennsyivania Railroad's electric lines will not occur on Monday. H. S. Jeffery, chairman of the railway employes here, who belong to the A. F. of L., so declared yesterday and said that he believed, after having been in conference with railroad officials, that a strike would not be necessary. Mr. Jeffery suggested to railroad officials that the regional director authorize the master mechanics and division engineers of Philadelphia terminal. Camden terminal and West Jersey and Seashore divisions to take up the cases of the stationary engineers, applying a sixty-eight-cent hourly rate. He also suggested that they get time and one half after the eighth hour, and on Sundays and holidays.

Carrying in her hand a large bouquet which was presented to her when she began her speech. Lady Astor started for her carriage after the meeting, but her way was obstructed by hundreds of cheering admirers. David Lloyd George, wife of the British permembrater, encerted the carriage.

The Runnels, after battling her way through the gale off Grand Marais all Thursday night, grounded early yesterday and pounded to pieces shortly after the crew of seventeen had been done on the John Owen, an ore carrier which has not been sighted since Wednesday. So far as known here last night all other steamers have been accounted by hundreds of cheering admirers. ORDINATION SERVICES and Lady Astor, escorted by Mrs. David Lloyd George, wife of the British Lady Astor's first appearance then began anew, and hundreds of persons trailed behind the moving carriage shouting "Will we win?"
