Bucknell Men Who Saw Service Enjoy Event After Football Game

One of the most interesting events held here Saturday in connection with the Bucknell-Gettysburg football game was a banquet given in the evening by the members of a Bucknell ambulance unit in Parlor C of the Penn-Harris. This unit was one of the the two that went from Bucknell University and durform the Army the men effected an organisation, making plans for an annual banquet at the Penn-Harris after the yearly game here.

The honor guests Saturday evening were Professor C. A. Lindeman, of the University faculty; Major Whitehouse, who enlisted the men in 1917; Lieutenant George Clapp, who was assigned to the section at Allentown and who took them overseas, and Lieutenant H. H. Parsons, who took charge of them in France and brought them back to this country.

Other events held by college men Bucknell ambulance unit in Parlor C of the Penn-Harris. This unit was one of the the two that went from Bucknell University and during nearly all of their service overseas the men were attached to the 68th Division of the French Army. Every man belonging to the section was cited for a Croix de Guerre and the section as a whole was cited to the lounge.

Keep Up with The Time

We should say that one of the most timely gifts would be a Mahogany Mantle Clock. A Mahogany Mantle Clock fits so well into the furnishing scheme of any home, however small or pretentious.

A lady appreciates a clock because she is around the home a great deal of the time.

A man appreciates a clock in the home because it gives all the time he needs.

We have a great many styles of Mahogany Mantle Clocks and they are equipped with the Tubular or Sonora Chimes.

Quite an expensive yet useful gift.

Another Reason Business Women Buy Here

A second reason business women deal here is that I offer so many frocks and suits in plain, sensible, reasonably conservative styles. Not only does this mean that you can wear the garment more often without becoming tired of it, but there's no danger of its going out of style before it's worn out.

Furthermore, the plain models are really better style at any time. Which is better art in furniture—a severe Sheraton piece, expressing the utmost in restraint and sheer beauty of proportion or a lumpy, ornate horror designed about the time of the Centennial? The same comparison applies to clothing. The woman of real taste selects the simpler models. And apparently the women of Harrisburg have real taste.

Visiting the Shops

you're a true lover of art, you will visit the Saltzgiver Art and Artique Store, 223 North Second street, at the first convenient moment. A rare treat awaits you! On Saturday morning Mr. Saltzgiver received a wonderful lot of imported mezzo-tints—beautiful pictures that are not duplicated. I just happened to wander into the store as he was opening them and, instead of staying five minutes, as intended, I stayed nearer fifty. Truly, I have never seen anything more worth while. It was almost as good as a visit to an Old World art sallery. There they were—the best works of Durer, Botticelli, Raffael and Fra Lippi. Only in prints, to be sure, but, oh, such excellent prints!

cold necessitates taking every pre-How things have changed! To-day, the modern policy is constructive modestructive. Such is particularly the case in the business world. It is the policy that has emblazoned certain names across our memories and it is also the policy that makes the Cloos Company successful wherever it goes. Ever progressive and employing the latest, most approved methods, the Cloos Company offers values and creations such as one seldom finds. And, as for couteous treatment—well, just visit the shop!

ISS Swope will hold her Christmas opening to-morrow, and already ISS Swope will hold her Christmas opening to-morrow, and already her gift room resembles a veritable branch of Santa Claux' warehouse. Wonderful doilies of all kinds, such as Santa alone can make, tempt one to buy them for their sheer loveliness. Never before have I seen a prettier, more appealing group. A single glimpse at the French Shop window will make you agree, I know. Then, too, there are attractive Plumbridge baskets, containing little jars of jams and jellies—also candy—charmingly arranged and so utterly novel and beautiful as to be almost too good to eat. Incidentally, Miss Swope has the sole agency for them in this city. Many, many other lovely things are also displayed, including useful cretonne bags, especially priced at $1.00 and $1.50, in which to carry your Christmas packages when a-shopping you would go.

to carry your Christmas packages when a-shopping you would go.

DON'T you enjoy eating a delection in the close of your morning's business activities? Or, if you have been shopping and are just about half famished, doesn't a sandwich taste good? At the new Lorraine Tea Room, in Walnut street, provision has been made to serve you with all sorts of appetizing things at short notice. Particular stress must be laid upon the delicious soups, sandwiches and salads, as tempting and satisfying as any you would meet in many a day's travel. The menus are arranged with great care and only the best of everything is served. Indeed, to lunch at the Lorraine once is to lunch there always, for the experience is so pleasant that it bears continual repetition.
