Buy Your Coal Now! Now!! Now!!!

Unescapable handicaps and conditions at the mines cannot be remedied in the coal yards of the city. Dealers have not the yard capacity nor the large financial resources required to stock at one time sufficient coal to take care of the city's needs on a rush-order basis.

Prudence, foresight and common sense suggest that the only solution is for the householder to get the coal in his cellar now, while weather, transportation, prices and other conditions are most favorable.

MASONS RECEIVE HIGHER DEGREES

Usual Reception to Class Will Mark This Evening's Program

The annual Fall Reunion of the Harrisburg Bodies, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, was begun last evening with the conferring of the fourth and fourteenth degrees upon a large class of candidates at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, North and Capitol streets.

This evening the usual class reception will be held, to-morrow morning the conferring of the fourth and fourteenth degrees will continue for those candidates who come from a distance and were unable to attend yesterday.

Capitol Hill Notes

Authority will be issued in a few days by Adjutant General Frank D. Birkett for the organization of three separate battalions of infantry in territory where units of the old Fourth Pennsylvania Infantry were formerly located.

Under a decision given by the Attorney General's Department to-day to the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings it is held that insurance against theft or damage of automobiles and other State property must be paid for outside of the State Insurance Fund.

The Public Service Commission to-day received an application for consolidation of the Tri-County Telephone Company, with the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company.

Eight boroughs and townships in Schuylkill county to-day filed complaint against the new rates of the Eastern Pennsylvania Light, Heat and Power Company, charging that they are discriminatory against the small consumer.

Representative John W. Vickerman, of Allegheny, leader of the "drvs" in the Legislature, was here to-day to see the Governor.

The State Highway Department to-day received word that the Washington county county had refused an injunction to restrain the State Highway Commissioner from constructing a road near the Henderson Coal Company's mine.

Two more counties filed judicial returns to-day, making thirteen, including Dauphin, to be heard from.

Polyclinic's Staff Covers Four Names

Physicians and surgeons of the staff of Polyclinic Hospital have subscribed $80 to "cover" the service stars of four members of the staff who served during the recent war, and this $80 has been sent to Stanley Jean, treasurer of the War Memorial Fund.

The medical men whose names have been "covered" by their associates are: Major E. A. Nicodemus, Lieutenant G. A. Zimmerman, Lieutenant C. J. Trullinger and Lieutenant S. J. Roberts, all of Polyclinic staff. Dr. Nicodemus is now taking a post-graduate surgical course in New York.

'KEEP WELL' IS NURSE SLOGAN

Child Welfare Movement Grows to Unusual Proportions, Reports Show

With "Keep Well" for a slogan, and with a strong force of nurses in the field, the Child Welfare movement in Harrisburg is placing the city in a position to show a real health record and progress toward its goal of municipal perfection in sanitary conditions.

The conference of nurses followed supper in the Gilbert home, 203 North Front street. The nurses who were present, with the institutions they represent, are as follows: Miss Miller, Miss Beaver, Miss Wickley, and Miss Well, of the Visiting Nurses' Association; Miss Lewis and Miss Graybill from the State Health Department; Miss Ringman from the Red Cross, and Miss Roth, the city nurse; Miss Simons and Miss Williamson, the nurses at the city health centers. In addition to the nurses, Miss Anne McCormick and Miss Gotschall of the Associated Aids also attended the conference.

The report showed far-reaching plans for child welfare which have recently been advanced by the opening of the three permanent health centers. Miss Miller, of the Visiting Nurses' Association, outlined the work of the association, showing how it reaches every portion of the city and provides bedside nursing. Miss Pass told of the medical inspection in the schools and the instructions in hygiene given to the children in addition to the medical aid which doctors and nurses rendered.
