

Commerce Chamber in Position to Protect Men From Imposters

The announcement that businessmen of the city were swindled last summer through the alleged machinations of a man and woman who purported themselves to be collectors of advertisements for two local institutions actuated the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce this morning to call the attention of merchants and businessmen of the city to the Chamber of Commerce ruling which when properly applied prevents dealings such as are said to have swindled the local merchants and afforded the accused pair a rich haul from the city.

The Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce makes a careful investigation of all solicitation schemes brought to its attention and refuses to issue a permit to the solicitors if the schemes do not prove to be worthwhile from an investment standpoint for those who are likely to be solicited.

The Chamber of Commerce this morning also called the attention of charitably inclined merchants and businessmen to the recent act of assembly which forbids the soliciting of donations, subscriptions of money or other property, or offering for sale anything to raise money for any charitable, benevolent, patriotic or private purpose, unless the corporation or individual benefited holds a valid certificate of registration with the Public Board of Charities.

The provisions of the act do not apply to any fraternal organization incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania, nor to any religious organization, school, college, university labor union, municipality or community organization. For all legitimate charitable or patriotic solicitations the State Board of Public Charities will issue a certificate of registration for a specified time. The association of individuals benefited is required to file semi-annually before February 1 and August 1 an account of all receipts and expenditures. The solicitor must hold written authority from the association or individual for which the contribution is asked.

Honor "Suicide Club" For Removing Mines

New York, Nov. 24.—The United States navy's "suicide club"—3600 officers and men of 53 sweepers just returned from the perilous task of clearing the North sea of mines—was honored to-day by high officials of the navy and city. Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, commander of the flotilla, reviewed the craft in the Hudson this morning. The flagship Black Hawk, fired the secretary's salute as the reviewing destroyer passed. Reports of the officering of the flotilla showed that the sweepers, subchasers and trawlers succeeded in removing 50,000 mines planted in an area of 250 square miles of the North sea. The work began on April 23, 1919, and did not end until September. The officers and men risked death every minute during their work. Some of the little craft were injured by explosives and many of the men were injured.

The well known "Farmerette" spontaneously produced through the necessities of war, has by no means passed out of existence, at least so far as the enrollment figures in the School of Agriculture at the Pennsylvania State College are concerned. Miss Margaret A. Knight, Dean of Women at the college, has just made the announcement that no less than twenty-four enthusiastic young women are enrolled in the various agricultural courses there, preparing themselves to go "back to the farm" and manage it according to the most approved and up-to-date scientific methods. But not all of these some-day real "farmerettes" hail from the native soil, for about half of them live in large towns and cities, and doubtless received the incentive to study scientific agriculture through "doing their bit" on the farms near their homes during the war. The girls enrolled in agriculture are: Landscape Gardening—Miss Elsie

- F. Claire, Philadelphia; Miss Olga Yergler, Patton. Agricultural Education — Miss Anna E. Morgan, Philadelphia. Horticulture — Miss Katherine Baer, North Wales; Miss Mary Mumford, Philadelphia; Miss Agnes Newman, Waynesboro. Agronomy—Miss Emily Gray, Philadelphia; Miss Virginia Percy, Prospect. Agriculture, including those girls in the two lower classes who have not yet chosen their special branches: Miss Josephine Hollingsworth, Ardmore; Miss Margaret L. Still, Elizabeth, N. J.; Miss Marie Atkinson, Highland Park; Miss Evelyn Bond, Collegeville; Miss Hattie Creighton, Hammersley Park; Miss Aileen M. Fell, Beaver; Miss Gertrude Rheinheimer, Germania, and Miss Marguerite Houser, Meadville. Two Year Course—Miss Marion D. Snyder, Wilkesburg; Miss Marjorie Graf, Cynwyd; Miss Marion Hingsworth, State College; Miss Ruth Miller, Waynesboro.

WETS CONFIDENT SO ARE THE DRYS

Question of Constitutional Prohibition Causes an Outburst of Opinions and Counter-Opinions

JANUARY 16, 1920, is the date officially proclaimed by the Department of State upon which constitutional prohibition is scheduled to take effect. Upon that date this nation "will" become bone dry, says the New York Anti-Saloon League through W. H. Anderson, its superintendent. Upon that date the United States "may" become bone dry, says Deputy United States Attorney Earl H. Barnes. Upon that date the United States "will not" become bone dry, says Theodore Bell, chief counsel for the Grape Growers Protective Association of California. Between these three opinions there is a wide latitude.

The prohibition forces of the country say that the United States went on a prohibition basis the moment thirty-six States had certified their ratification of what is known as the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. Thirty-eight States, through their respective legislatures, had ratified the proposed amendment up to Jan. 16, 1919, the prohibition forces assert. Thirty out of Ohio, they declare, and the result will not be changed; the amendment stands adopted as of Jan. 16, 1919, by three-fourths of the States of the Union.

The wet forces, represented by United States Attorney Earl H. Levi Mayer, Chicago attorney, insist that the result of the referendum election in Ohio on Nov. 4, by which the legislative ratification of the amendment was disavowed by 542 popular votes, opens the door to similar referendum elections in twelve other States which have also ratified the amendment but whose constitutions provide for a referendum vote on any question demanded in a petition initiated by a qualified number of electors. The two States are California, Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Maine and Arizona. Forty-five States in all have ratified through their legislatures, the amendment, but in the case of seven the action was taken after Jan. 16.

The Wets Need Ten States The Wets insist that prohibition cannot take effect until all of the referendum States shall have had an opportunity to vote upon the ratification of their legislatures, and that if ten of the referendum States vote rejection the amendment will be inoperative, because it would not be adopted. The Wets also assert that thirty-

Reading Quiet After Citizens Halt a Mass Meeting of Radicals

Reading, Pa., Nov. 24.—After a night of excitement as the result of determination of citizens to prevent a mass meeting, Reading calmed down to-day and confidence was expressed that no more attempts would be made by alleged radicals to stir up unrest in this city. Much credit was given to the energetic measures taken by Mayor E. H. Filbert, not only in calming the big crowd that surrounded the headquarters of the Socialists last night, but in having the meeting called off. Socialists including James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, had advertised a meeting at which the Rev. Irvin St. John Tucker, of Chicago, was expected to speak on the amnesty of political prisoners in defiance of the city authorities who had forbidden the gathering. This defiance resulted in an open air mass meeting in the afternoon at which the determination was reached to prevent the Socialists' meeting. Five thousand persons gathered at the Socialist headquarters in the evening, and the threatening attitude of the big crowd caused the meeting to be called off. Mayor Filbert addressed the crowd from a balcony of the headquarters and counseled calmness. Several hundred ex-servicemen then marched past the building, the Socialists hung an American flag from the window and the crowd slowly dispersed.

TO HOLD PLE SOCIAL The Ladies Aid Society of the Camp Hill Methodist Church will hold a pie social at the Fellowship building of the church to-morrow afternoon. Lunch will be served at the building between 4 and 8 o'clock. All sorts of pies and soup by the quart will be sold.
