Hundreds of housewives have been using Golden Crown White Syrup (red label) in their cooking, baking and candy making for many years, but to-day thousands upon thousands of women are using it in place of sugar to overcome the sugar shortage, because they realize that both a large proportion of Golden Crown White Syrup and Sugar come from the same sugar cane.

Golden Crown White Syrup (red label) is clear, very sweet and heavy bodied, and, being practically neutral in flavor, it will not affect either the natural taste or appearance of any food or drink in which it is mixed. The richness, purity and quality of Golden Crown White Syrup make the addition of a foreign flavor unnecessary, but, if you so desire, it can readily be flavored to suit your individual taste by the mere addition of vanilla, lemon or any other household flavoring extract.
