

WIFE SLAIN IN DREAM TRAGEDY

New Jersey Man Tells of Killing "Intruder" and Finds His Spouse Dead

New York, Nov. 25.—James Sappin, of Irvington, N. J., dreamed Sunday night he shot at a man who had climbed through the window of his bedroom. He awoke this morning to find his wife lying beside him dead. One chamber of a .32-caliber revolver which Sappin always kept under his pillow had been discharged.

Sappin called the Irvington police headquarters when he found that his wife had been killed by a bullet wound in her head. The story of his dream he told to the first patrolman who arrived at his home at 130 Colt street. Insistent questioning by the police to-day has failed to break down the story of the dream murder.

"Gets Blackhand Note"

During the night, Sappin said, he dreamed he had received a blackhand letter demanding $1,000. Later, he told the police, he saw in his dream a man clambering over the window sill of his bedroom. As the intruder approached, Sappin drew the revolver from under his pillow and fired once.

Whether the shot took effect, Sappin said, he did not know, for his dream drifted off at that point and he could recall nothing more until he awoke this morning.

Sappin, who is employed in an Irvington factory, had been married seven years. His wife was 32 years old. They had two children, John, 4 years old, and Agnes, 2. Both youngsters were asleep when the police arrived.

Married Life Seemed Happy

During his seven years of married life Sappin told the police he had had no serious disagreement with his wife and their neighbors said today that they had always regarded Mr. and Mrs. Sappin as a congenial and happy couple.

No possible motive for the killing of Mrs. Sappin was suggested.

Many Italians live in the neighborhood of the Sappin home, a two-family structure. Blackhand activities have been the subject of recent rumors in that district.

The Irvington police seemed inclined to credit Sappin's story to-day, but he was held for investigation.

London Critic Blames Wilson For Peace Delay

London, Nov. 25.—The action of the American Senate in apparently rejecting the peace treaty "seems a moral collapse on the western front," J. L. Garvin writes in the Weekly Observer.

The weeklies generally, however, view the Senate's stand as a reaction from the war and an unescapable phase of reconstruction. They expect the next session of Congress to be "calmer" and to realize the necessity of "American co-operation in restoring normal conditions throughout the world."

Defeat of the treaty was due chiefly to opposition to "President Wilson's policies," Garvin points out. When re-elected, Wilson became virtually a "dictator," leaving the Republicans out of war jobs and without representation in the Peace Commission. Taft, Root and Hughes might have been named as delegates to the Paris deliberations, Garvin asserts, but instead the President excluded these representatives of "at least one-half of America."

Even though the Republicans control the Senate, which has concurrent powers in treaty making, and hold the "fate of Wilson's policies in the hollow of its hand," the President chose to ignore this party line, writer points out. Had Lloyd George and Clemenceau faced a similar situation they "would have fallen long ago," he declares.

"The President relied upon appealing to public opinion to override the Senate Republicans," Garvin says, and "compelled them to fight. This was more than political human nature could stand. They determined to use their power to defeat and humiliate Wilson and break down what they termed the 'Presidential autocracy.'"

"The President's illness ruined his last chance. If the treaty is defeated no man ever will hold again the place Wilson held in Paris."

Cunard Line Takes Over the Imperator

New York, Nov. 25.—Cunard Steamship Company officials took possession to-day of the former Hamburg-American liner Imperator, which, during the war, was held in Germany and which goes by the terms of settlement to the British. The vessel had been used as a transport until recently, and was tied up at Pier 4, Port of Embarkation. It was towed across the river by tugboats to Pier 54, one of the Cunard piers, at Thirteenth street and North River.

No ceremonies marked the turning over of the giant liner. It is said that Capt. Charles A. Smith will be made commander of the Imperator, which will be placed in regular passenger service between New York and Liverpool.

Stroud Must Hang, Says Supreme Court

Washington, Nov. 25.—Robert F. Stroud, sentenced to hang for killing a prison guard in the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary, must pay the death penalty, the United States Supreme Court decided.

Stroud fought for his life on the grounds that capital punishment is illegal in Kansas. A former governor opposed the death penalty in the state because it would be the first legal hanging. The Government declined the prison was within Federal jurisdiction.

Brazil Not Satisfied With Monroe Doctrine

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 25.—The failure of the American Senate to ratify the peace treaty has resulted in re-

The newspaper, O Paiz, supports Albuquerque's demands, declaring that while Brazil's entry into the war was an expression of continental solidarity it was by no means a relinquishment of her sovereignty. The American Senate's reservations hinge upon the doctrine which before the Peace Conference, was an agreement between equals but giving the United States the right to expand commercially and to extend her sphere of political influence at the cost of other nations, the newspaper added. Other newspapers here generally did not comment upon the Senate's action.

"Be Sure Of Your Store"

Have You Been to The "Overcoat-Fair"

Where You Can Buy Your Overcoat For The Least Money?

$30—$35—$40—$45—$50

We are glad we can offer you these good Overcoats in such a large assortment of styles, fabrics and colorings. Here's quite a difference in clothes this year, the price may be the same in many stores, but all merchandise is not the same high standard as our big stocks are composed of; furthermore, our guarantee and service are far superior to the ordinary way of doing things. You'll get the benefit of our early buying at big savings if you buy at DOUTRICH'S.

There are more Overcoats at this "Live Store" than you have ever seen in any single store in Pennsylvania; a quantity so large that you would scarcely believe possible for a store in Harrisburg to dispose of in one season, but the fact is there's a shortage almost everywhere and we have the Overcoats to take care of the extra business that's been coming here since we began the "Overcoat-Fair"

It's been a great help to our clothing department. It's convinced a great number of people that our values are not exaggerated and that it's so much easier, as well as more pleasant, to choose clothing from a store that handles the immense number of Suits and Overcoats as this "Live Store" does. You not only save money, but time, which is a very important factor these days.

Remember the "Overcoat-Fair" isn't going to last forever. If you are anxious to get the best that's to be had for the money you spend, you can make no mistake in coming to DOUTRICH'S for clothes this Fall and Winter. We don't only talk about big stocks, greater values and extraordinary fabrics, they are here for you and your friends at our reasonable low prices.

You Can't Brush or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.
