"BILLY" MEHRING IS BACK IN GAME

Will Assist in Booking Good Boys For Local Boxing Association

"Billy" Mehring will return to the fight game. While his business will not permit him to devote all his time to making of big bills, he will be assistant matchmaker to Dave McConnell, for the Harrisburg Boxing Association. This popular promoter is already at work on a strong card for December 5. Mehring when seen last evening stated that he always has been a lover of the game and that he is in favor of giving the fans a square deal and plenty of action for their money. Owing to the fact that he is representing a large chemical manufacturing concern he will not be able to give his entire time, but will try and keep up his past reputation for giving Harrisburg folks the best that can be had.

Mehring Made Good
It will be remembered by the fans that it was Mehring who revived boxing in 1916 after an absence of five years. He conducted a few shows at the Orpheum theater but later opened up at the Chestnut Street auditorium where the present matches are being held. His first show there was composed of the best fighters in this part of the State with Frankie McGuire and Freddie Welsh, then the world's lightweight champion, as the main attraction in the wind-up. That was the first and last time that a champion while holding the title, ever fought a bout in this city.

MIKE GIBBONS TO QUIT GAME

Says He Will Retire From Ring Permanently — Promises Wife.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul phenom, has announced through The Associated Press that he had decided to retire permanently from the ring. Gibbons who is wealthy, said he had given his promise to Mrs. Gibbons that he will never again participate in a ring battle. Although opinions of leading fight experts who attended the bout here last night between Middleweight Champion Mike O'Dowd and Gibbons varied somewhat regarding the outcome, they were unanimous that Gibbons had lost some of the ability which made him one of the cleverest fighters in his class a few years ago.

Gibbons Had Something.
Most of the fighters gave the ten-round slugfest match to O'Dowd. The opinion varied from a shade to a fair margin. A few experts thought that Gibbons' flashes of cleverness when he baffled O'Dowd entitled him to a draw. Some of Gibbons' supporters admitted that he deliberately decided to forget his boxing skill and centre all of his energies into an effort to engage O'Dowd in a slugfest match and to put over his right cross for a knock-out blow that would make him champion. During a fierce exchange in the sixth round when Gibbons was holding a slight lead, he hooked his right to O'Dowd's head. This blow appeared to gain an advantage from that time. In the eighth round Gibbons again took a chance and used his right as a caution boxing instructor. He said he wanted to see Rickard about oil and moving pictures. Jess expects Rickard to come West in December. "I am too busy to fight," was the only answer Willard would make to a direct question whether he planned to enter the ring again.

Jess Willard Denies That He Will Return to Ring

Lawrence, Kan., Nov. 24.—Arriving here from his farm in Shawnee county, Jess Willard denied he had wired or written to Tex Rickard about re-entering the fighting game. He said he wanted to see Rickard about oil and moving pictures. Jess expects Rickard to come West in December. "I am too busy to fight," was the only answer Willard would make to a direct question whether he planned to enter the ring again.

In Bob Higgins, Penn State has the best end in the game to-day and there seems to be little doubt but that the popular blue and white captain will receive universal American rating. A wonderful defensive player is Higgins, but offensively, he is even more of an asset; for he has hardly a superior at handling the forward pass and his work in the receiving end has made the aerial attack a deadly weapon this year. And last but not least, Higgins can go back of the line if necessary, and hold his own in punting with any opponent.

No matter what the result of the game on Thanksgiving may be, Hugo Bozdek has again made good at Penn State, and under his leadership, students and alumni see a wonderful future ahead for the college located in the mountains of Center county. Bozdek's system of clean, hard playing, in either victory or defeat, has appealed to every one and faculty, student body and members of the team are solidly behind him.

Methodist Cage Five Is Anxious For More Games

Ernest K. Shuman, manager of the Methodist Club, is in the field for games, and desires to hear from managers of teams desiring a good attraction. He can be communicated with at 2533 Agate street. Members of four Methodist Church Sunday schools in the Up-town district namely, those of the Camp Curtin, Ridge avenue, Grace and Fifth street, are to be privileged to become attached to the Methodist club, a combination athletic and social organization, which has for a number of years represented the Fifth street Methodist church. The decision to extend the membership radius was made last night at a meeting of a large representation, conducted in the club room in the Fifth Street Church building. One of the reasons for the change was that of making a more determined stand towards the development of athletic bodies in the organization.

HARVARD LOOKS LIKE CHAMPIONS

General Opinion Prevails That Crimson Team is Entitled To Honors.

Some football fans are of the opinion that it would be better not to attempt to pick the football eleven which deserves to rank first in eastern college circles, because the season has been so full of upsets. Since there is no way to determine the gridiron championship, the selection of the team that deserves this honor is largely a matter of opinion.

However, the best opinion will award it, generally believed, that honor to Harvard. The Crimson, which beat Yale on Saturday by the score of 10 to 3 is the only eastern eleven that has gone through the season undefeated. The only mark to Harvard's discredit is its game with Princeton two weeks ago. Those who object to awarding Harvard the mythical championship point to the fact that the Crimson this year had a preliminary schedule which was ridiculously easy and that it did not meet any outside teams of great strength. Yale and Princeton are admittedly far below their normal strength this year. Both had been beaten by minor college teams early in the season. It is true that they found themselves after the season got well under way, but it did not add particularly to Harvard's prestige to the Princeton or to beat Yale.

Deserve Consideration
Such teams as Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Colgate, Washington and Jefferson, Penn State and Dartmouth all deserve consideration. Harvard used to be charged that it was a team that lost one or more games. The teams just mentioned were more or less erratic, a quality that cannot be charged to Harvard. The Crimson decidedly beat Boston College before this team trounced Yale. Harvard also beat Brown, which disposed of Dartmouth a week ago. So while Harvard may not have played a schedule of the strength that Harvard usually arranges, the Crimson did not show the erratic streak as did the group of teams just mentioned. At their best probably every one of the teams referred to, could beat Harvard, but all of these eleven played uncertain football, whereas Harvard played consistently all season and did not lose a single game. So if first place must be awarded the title in the East certainly belongs to Harvard.

The following table shows how the leading teams compare:

	P.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Opp.
Harvard	9	0	1	222	13	2
Dartmouth	8	6	1	141	53	3
Yale	7	5	1	112	27	2
Pennsylvania	8	5	2	155	40	3
Syracuse	9	7	2	150	28	3
Princeton	7	4	2	94	24	2
Yale	5	3	0	151	35	2
Cornell	7	3	4	0	34	71
Pittsburgh	8	6	1	119	48	3
Penn State	7	6	1	0	153	22
Columbia	8	2	2	41	100	3

Penn State Team to Give Pitt Hard Battle

State College, Pa., Nov. 25.—Can the Nittany Lion beat the Panther? This is the question which is bothering all followers of Penn State football to-day and it will be answered when the two old rivals clash on Forbes Field on Thanksgiving Day. Pitt is undoubtedly the favorite and is picked by the majority of the experts to win, but Penn State students and alumni have just heaps of confidence in their team and in Hugo Bozdek, the foxy coach. In Bob Higgins, Penn State has the best end in the game to-day and there seems to be little doubt but that the popular blue and white captain will receive universal American rating. A wonderful defensive player is Higgins, but offensively, he is even more of an asset; for he has hardly a superior at handling the forward pass and his work in the receiving end has made the aerial attack a deadly weapon this year. AT THE MAJESTIC
The entire assembly of artists appearing in this production scored heavily yesterday in the first presentation of this bill in Harrisburg. The show is an excellent one throughout and is crammed with lots of hearty laughs and plenty of music. The first act is Colonel Jack George presenting rag pictures which took well. Then comes Helen Vincent in "The Fatal Fortune" which is a comedy of the same nature and also scored heavily. The episodes are strictly Keith headliners and are bound to please. Another interesting episode of "The Fatal Fortune" is also being shown.

AT THE COLONIAL
Mary Miles Minter scored a wonderful hit at the Colonial Theater yesterday when her latest Realart production, "The Green Gables" was shown for the first time in Harrisburg. This picture is adapted from the novel of the same name and has aroused a large amount of curiosity in Harrisburg since the announcement of its arrival. Thousands of people have read this famous novel and thousands will want to see the play. It is an excellent one throughout and is crammed with lots of hearty laughs and plenty of music. The first act is Colonel Jack George presenting rag pictures which took well. Then comes Helen Vincent in "The Fatal Fortune" which is a comedy of the same nature and also scored heavily. The episodes are strictly Keith headliners and are bound to please. Another interesting episode of "The Fatal Fortune" is also being shown.

AT THE VICTORIA
The Victoria Theater's new star, Olive Thomas, was well received at the Victoria yesterday in her latest production, "The Spite Bride" in which a girl marries not for love but for spite. This picture will be shown to-day and to-morrow for the last times at the Victoria. Coupled with this attraction is the first two-reel Harold Lloyd comedy being offered. This is one of the first two-reel Harold Lloyd comedies ever released and is without a doubt one of the funniest pictures Harrisburg has ever been offered.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Theda Bara will be offered in "The Lure of Ambition," her latest William Fox production. It shows what a girl will go through to realize her ambitions in life. ELSIE FERGUSON AT REGENT
Seem to signal advantage in one of the best characterizations of her screen career—"The Witness for the Defense" picture. "The Witness for the Defense" which was shown for the first times at the Regent Theater yesterday. This picture is a dramatic novel of the same name and will be shown at the Regent to-day and to-morrow.

The story is one of deep and intense dramatic interest, while the supporting cast is exceptionally strong. The play teaches a wholesome moral that marriage with a brutal partner is a curse and a woman's happiness. In all, Elsie Ferguson's performance can be regarded as the best of her notable career.

REGENT
To-day and to-morrow—Elsie Ferguson in the Paramount-Arcraft picture, "The Witness for the Defense." Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Theda Bara in "The Lure of Ambition" picture, "Widow by Proxy." MAJESTIC

"CURIOSITY" COMING
"Curiosity," a vivacious three-act play by H. Austin Adams, will be presented by J. S. Tepper, Inc., at the Orpheum Theater on Friday and Saturday, November 28 and 29. This will give patrons of the theater in this city an opportunity to see this excellent production before it begins its engagement in New York. The cast is headed by Cyril Keightley, whose acting is always pleasing to those who appreciate clever theatrical performances. Kathleen MacDonell, another favorite of the play-going public, has a prominent part. Merle Maddern, the charming niece of Mrs. Fish, is seen in another important role. Others in the cast are Ramsey Wallace and Arvid Paulson.

"THE LUST OF GOLD"
Indications point to a packed house for the engagement of Lou Tellegen and Helen Ware at the Orpheum to-night. When one considers the artistic excellence of previous performances in which these distinguished actors have been seen as individual stars and that the featured player is Hedwig Reicher, a playgoer of pronounced ability and of great reputation in the theater abroad and whose performance it is but natural that warranted interest should be shown by local theatergoers. An evening spent with such an array of talent in play that is said to afford each a role that is particularly fitting, the lover of the best in the spoken drama will find an evening at the theater still eminently worth while. Attractions of this caliber are seldom seen outside the metropolitan cities. Its appearance here will undoubtedly meet with the reception it deserves.

Owen Moore has playing opposite him in "Pecadilly Jim," Zena Keefe, the girl whom Myron Selznick proposes to make a star within twelve hours. She is already at work on "Pecadilly Jim."

100% Buckwheat
Directions For Use
ALWAYS carry a layer of ashes on grate to prevent coal falling through.
Shake the grate with short strokes, just enough to remove most of the ashes; leave a layer on the grate.
Allow fire to burn rather freely for about 15 minutes, then fill firebox with coal almost to the firedoor.
Buckwheat coal is recommended for early winter heating; save the larger coal for severe weather.
It's a good plan to have a supply of Buckwheat coal and when your fire gets low put on several shovelfuls—see how quickly the radiators get warm.
