Highwayman Holds Up

Man and Woman to

Get Watch and Change

Held up at the point of a revolver near State and Church streets about 7.30 last evening, Donald D. Balmer, of Camp Hill, was robbed of his watch and 36 cents in change. A wallet with approximately $26 in an inner coat pocket, was overlooked by the highwayman.

Balmer, according to his story, was walking with a woman toward and North Cange in Wilkes-Barre

Give Up Hope of Rescuing Crew of Steamer Myron

By Associated Press.

Sault Ste Maie, Mich., Nov. 26.—
Owners of the lake steamer Myron, lost in the storm that swept Lake Superior Saturday, had practically given up hope last night of rescuing any of the sixteen members of the crew who were taking to the boats just as the vessel went down ten miles off whitefish Point.

The submarine chaser 438 searched the region of the Parisian Islands to-day without finding trace of the crew or the lifeboats. It was in that vicinity that Captain Walter R. Neal, apparently the sole survivor, was picked up by the steamer Franz and it was thought some of the boats might have drifted in that direction with the wreckage to which the commander clung for twenty hours before being rescued.

It is generally conceded by marine men that enough time has elapsed to hear from members of the crew had they been picked up by passing vessels.

writing of it, had failed to put it over.
The one redeeming feature of the performance was the scenery of the Canadian forest, which was worthy of Belasco. That and the acting of Hedwig Reicher, as the faithful Flores. Kept some of the audience awake; others were roused from their doze by the noisily-impossible climax of the second act.

Lou Tellegen and Helen Ware would have liked to act and act wonderfully, but they would only converse. Harrisburg, although it showed very poor manners by laughing loudly at one of the scenes, has been "done" again which is unfortunate.
