Newspaper Comment on Constitutional Commission

Newspapers of the State are commenting widely and freely on the new Constitutional Revision Commission. Some of the extracts are: Philadelphia Press — Governor Sproul's Constitutional Commission is broadly representative. It has its makeup members who are highly capable and well equipped for the work of revising our present Constitution and writing a new one that will be a great improvement upon our present one. The public demand for a new Constitution. While the task of the commission is to investigate and report on the desirability of a new Constitution there is nothing to prevent its going to the root of the matter and reporting a draft of a new Constitution for a convention to consider and accept, amend or reconstruct, as its judgment dictates. Such a preparatory draft supported by a report giving well-considered reasons for the changes proposed would very greatly facilitate the work of a Constitutional Convention. Some of the members of the commission that make the draft, would doubtless be members of the convention and prepared to expound and defend their work. Large bodies are good for deliberation and yet competent in the highest sense to do its very important work. Naturally political lines have not been drawn, and it is interesting to note that the two Pennsylvanians who happen to be members of the Cabinet of President Wilson have been called upon to assist in the revision of the Constitution of the Commonwealth. Beside the Attorney General of the United States we have the Attorney General of the State, former Attorney General, the City Solicitor of Philadelphia and other eminent lawyers. The Governor has not made this entirely his lawyers' commission, but has included educators, the State Banking Commissioner, business men and bankers, journalists, farmers and two notable women. Thus it should be possible to frame a document that will be purely a lawyer's standpoint. Most of the members of the commission are practical persons who have had experience in various walks of life and they should be able to produce an instrument that will meet the demands of the time and of the future. There has been some opposition to the revision of the Constitution in this State on the ground that conditions were too unsettled to permit of a calm and unbiased consideration of the subject. It will be seen, however, that the revision has been prompted by radicals to urge a postponement, but it must be remembered that this commission merely recommends changes. They must be approved by the Legislature and that cannot be before 1921, and it will be 1923 before they are voted upon by the people. It will be seen, therefore, that there will be ample time for a full and comprehensive discussion of the subject. The members of the commission are charged with the study of the Constitution in the light of modern thought and conditions. There is every reason to feel that they will do their work well but in any event the people will have the last word on the subject.

Philadelphia Record—The commission appointed by Governor Sproul to frame recommendations for changes will obviate the necessity for another convention if its suggestions find favor with the Legislature, and subsequently with the voters. The personnel is generally strong, with a tendency to conservatism. As that is eminently the temper of Pennsylvania, which dislikes radical innovations of any kind, no fault can be found on that account. It may be forecast that the commission, while urging important changes in the Constitution, will avoid those extremes to which many Western states have gone and which do not find favor in the East. As all recommendations must be submitted to a vote of the electors, the latter can pick and choose according to their fancy, without approving or rejecting the work as a whole. This seems a better plan than the one which would have the residents of cities with a population of more than 10,000 electing a committee to agree upon changes which will meet with popular approval.

Philadelphian Public Ledger—Governor Sproul, by his appointment of the commission provided for by the Legislature, has at last set in motion the machinery for the long-needed exhaustive examination of the State Constitution with a view to its future amendment or revision. Under the terms of the enabling act, this commission is free to recommend either a piecemeal revision of the State's fundamental law or the submission of an entirely new document. It is natural that the personnel of the new commission should be closely scrutinized by those who are hoping that Pennsylvania will by a revision of its constitution along enlightened and progressive lines put itself abreast of the times in its method of dealing with social and economic problems. Candor compels us to say that the Governor's selections do not hold out great promise of advancement along these lines. He has chosen able lawyers and publicists, most of them of the old school of thought, apparently in the fear that radical opinion might enter into the councils of the commission. Fortunately, however, the State will not leave the final word on the subject to any appointed commission. Its work must of necessity be advisory to the electors, who will have the last word on the subject. MILLIONS FOR STATE SCHOOLS

Payments Have Gone Beyond the $2,000,000 Mark and More Are to Be Made Soon

Almost two and a quarter millions of dollars have been paid by the State Treasury to the school districts of the State as the payment for this fall and a million more will be distributed by the end of the year. The State fiscal year will close on Saturday and it is likely that the $50,000,000 mark will be reached. The revenue now is far ahead of any previous record, but there are heavy appropriations ahead to pay. In accordance with custom most of the departments of the State Capitol are closed to-day for the Thanksgiving holiday and some of them will not re-open until Monday. The fiscal departments, however, will remain open owing to the close of the financial year which comes on November and there will be no Saturday holiday in these offices as many in the hands of dollars are expected to come in. The Public Service Commission has adjourned all hearings until next week. Monday the argument in the case of the Pennsylvania Electric Co. vs. the Commonwealth will be heard. The Wilkes-Barre Railway cases are now in the hands of the commission for decision. The State Compensation Board has ordered a new hearing in the case of the Commonwealth vs. American International Shipbuilding Corporation, Philadelphia, for purposes of further inquiry. The Board adopted findings of referees in Donato vs. Empire Engineering Co., Philadelphia; DeCarle vs. Weibach Street Lighting Co., Philadelphia, and dismissed these cases: Porter vs. Empire Engineering Co.; Knotts Sons, Philadelphia; Hohl vs. Brooke Iron Co., Birdsboro; Buckinbrook vs. Price-Pancoast Coal Co., Troop and Gibbons vs. Hudson Coal Co., Scranton. The State Department of Agriculture has issued warnings against wheat pests and estimates that much damage is done by the pest. It aids the propagation of the wheat rust it is claimed. The Department is also warning against the wheat midge which does much damage. Data gathered by the State Department of Agriculture is declared to show that the number of dogs killed in the State last year because they were not licensed reached a total of 75,125. There were 362,249 licensed, according to reports from all counties. The department estimates that the number of silos built in the State this year was over 11,000, making a grand total of 43,657 in the State, most of them in the Northern tier. Governor Sproul is to attend the Pennsylvania Society dinner in New York in December. The State Compensation Board will meet in Philadelphia next week. The State Highway Department has revoked the 1919 automobile registration of Louis DePerry, 41 Fernside Street, Pittsburgh, who held license No. 352,971. The revocation came as a result of a certificate from the Public Service Commission setting forth that DePerry operated the motor vehicle registered under license No. 352,971 as a common carrier of passengers, without the approval of the Public Service Commission, as required by law. This was determined by the Commission at a hearing held in Pittsburgh, October 23. The State Highway Commissioner, under the act of July 9, 1919, has power to revoke vehicle licenses in cases of this kind. Senator C. J. Buckman, of Bucks

Central High Notes A very successful meeting of the S. P. Q. the classical club of Central High School, was held at the home of Miss Dora Billet, 433 Penn street. Miss Virginia Watts was the interesting sketch of the life of a Roman boy. There were piano solos by Miss Helen Balm and Miss Margaret Martz and delightful as well as instructive lantern slides of Rome, narrated by Miss Nellie Ard and a Grecian dance in costume. The meeting closed with the entire club singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" in Latin. The society comprises: The Misses M. Kattarino, McNiff, Censor; Helen Bahn, Margaret Cunkle, Edies Garland, Sylvia Gingrich, Margaret Goodman, Elizabeth Hardebusch, Sarah Manahan, Martz, Annette Mercurio, Naomi Michael, Mary Rodney, Winifred Tripper, Marion Davis, Eva Irving, Jane Paterson, Edies Aitkens, Nellie Ard, Dora Billet, Frances Burkholder, Bessie Delle Claster, Florence Frazer, Emily Sites, Elizabeth Herr, Virginia Watts, Harold Fox, Vincent Stanford, Gordon Hinkle, Kenneth Kurtz. An assembly of the school was held recently when it was announced that there would be only three issues of the Argus this year in connection with the Commencement Number. Heretofore four numbers were issued during the year with a Commencement Argus in June, dealing mostly with the Senior Class. It is the plan of the staff this year, by cutting the number of issues from four to three to make each more complete. The same amount of material will be put into three numbers that formerly went into four. The price of the paper will also be changed. The former price was seven cents for the four issues during the winter and a dollar for the Commencement Argus. The new price is $1, including the commencement number. The S. S. S. Society met recently at the home of Miss Ruth Barr, 2048 North Front street. Plans for an After the business meeting, refreshments were served to the members, who include the Misses Elizabeth Franz, Helen Dieffenbach, Marion Hartwick, Hazel Heisen, Hazel Bastian, Esther Wheeler, Mary Blaine, Beatrice Blair, Helen Hawthorne, Mary Rhoads, Georgetta Rupp, Cora Schuler, Helen Schuler, Elizabeth Handeul and Ruth Barr.

Industrial Map of City Prepared by Chamber of Commerce A map of the city 11x17 feet, showing all available industrial sites, has been prepared for the Chamber of Commerce by E. Clark Cowden, City Planning Commission Engineer, a member of the Chamber's industrial committee. The map has been placed in the offices of the Chamber for the benefit of those who may be interested in sites of the city. Floor space and other interesting information concerning the sites, are included on the map. Some sites on the West Shore are listed.

"The Live Store" "Always Reliable" "Be Sure of Your Store" Society Brand Clothes Store Will Be Closed All Day Thanksgiving Our Thanks to You We believe that we all have much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving—But we, who are identified with this establishment, feel specially grateful for the patronage that has been accorded us this year. Our business has grown to "new proportions." We have made many new friends—but what is more important, we have strengthened old friendships. It pleases us to think what this signifies—It means that the men of this city and surrounding territory have faith in this "Live Store," in our "dependable" merchandise, our word, our service—our policy of square-dealing, honest representation and giving greater values at all times, and we are thankful that our method of doing business has won such generous recognition for the people throughout Central Pennsylvania. Thanksgiving Greeting We are thankful to you for making this the best year in our business career—for your kind words and kinder deeds. We, this Thanksgiving Day, give thanks for the day and what it means, thankful beyond the measure of words that ours is the land which gave the torch of freedom birth, that out of our mountain crags the soaring eagle takes his way to other lands and bears the word, so, out of all the days that, marching down the years, a hard elective might reach forth and grasp. Its hours so filled with hope, adventure, sorrow, opportunity, aye, life—a day to test the human soul and find, we trust, a golden strain; a day of faith in God, in life immortal under other stars; a day of love and fellowship. May this day be a blessing to you and yours. W. N. WINEMILLER, with Fackler Furniture and Carpet House
