St. Stephen's Episcopal Church will be held this evening in the Civic Member of Steele School Faculty Writes Sketch Produced Before Crowded House

> Early in the week children of the Steele school building cleveriy pre-sented a little playlet, "Mrs. Mur-phy's Mince Pie," written by Miss El-Nixon, a fourth grade teacher, who received hearty congratulations from an audience of over 700 on the ccess of her sketch.

who received hearty congratulations from an audience of over 700 on the success of her sketch.

The Telegraph reporter, who enjoyed every minute of the evening, says of the production:

Araminta Gully was delightful as Dorothy Ann, a naughty boarding school pupil, who had been sent to her room for stealing a mince pie which had been saved for "Poor Old Mrs. Murphy."

It did not seem possible that stern Miss Green the teacher was only little Dora Kinderman. When the teacher left the room, the Fairy Queen, Dorothy Pettibone, and her attendants, Myrtle Davis, and Helen Buyer, entered and at a wave of the wand, Dorothy Ann falls asleep. She is rudely awakened by six large Mince Pies—Cleo McArthur, Geraldine Butts, Ruth Gastrock, Erma Swarr, Nola Faust, Saramae Einzig, who scold her soundly for her stealing and bad manners. They finally decide not to take her to Pie-land at conce, so after a folk-dance they settle down to see what other visitors she may have. The visitors are not long in arriving. They are goblins — "Unkind Words" which she has said. They terrify Dorothy Ann who promises the Fairy Queen never to use the dreadful words again. The next visitor is Dorothy Ann's old French Doll which she had broken in a fit of temper. When Hellen Moore, as the "French Doll," with dark curls and pink ribbons, did a jerky doll dance. It made one wonder if that "dear old doll" that was stored away so carefully from childhood days, had somehow come back to life. "Children From Long Ago" — Irene Wagner, Helen McCurdy, Bennie Hoffstat, Robert Albright, in powdered wigs, silks and huge buckles, came in and danced.

Mary Kitzmiller and Helen Swartz as "Summer Breezes," in dresses of pink tarleton, with huge gauzy wings, blew in, told of their work and danced.

"Jack Frost," Kenneth Tyson, on arriving made the audience laugh at his dance with the "French Doll." He calls his "Snowfakes," who come fluttering in, in a veritable snow flurry. These dear little folks were tiny maidens who sang a

The sleepiness is accounted for when four "Slumber Fairies," May Clark, Edna Scholbin, Betty Black, Ruth Peters, tiptoe in with lighted candles and sing and dance them all off to Dreamland.

D. A. awakens a reformed little girl to find her teacher in the room. She delights the latter by promises of future good behavior.

Gifts

Never has so much attention been given to the development of artistic children's gifts.

The dolls of the familiar children's story characters are wonderfully executed, includ-ing "The Sand Man," "Humpty Dumpty," "Sunny Smiles" and
"The Frog Who Would A-Wooing Go."

The stuffed fuzzy dogs are clever. The elephants, too, will delight.

And there are, too, the knit and pique booties, the latter made in the form of bunnies; the decorated toilet sets and the decorated toller sets and novelties, chinaware, bib and tray cloths, dresses, both plain and embroidered, and a host of articles for the kiddles from the age of a few months to ten years.

Visiting the Shops

THE feminine heart has nothing to sigh for in furs while Louis remains in town. Creations in neckpleces, coats, and trimmings of fur, both artistic and distinguished, are the specialty of this master Ladies Tailor. If you happen to be passing the main entrance of the Capitol just cross to his shop and ask to see the soft, rich pelts collected there. Sumptuous coats of wonderful seal, lovely neckpleces of squirrel, beaver, seal, and fox are among the masterpiece. Louis will evolve from them to your lasting pleasure. It would be quite impossible not to feel at ease and look one's best in one of Louis' fur creations.

The feminine heart has nothing to sake my advice on the matter of picture framing I should unhesitatingly tell you to have your work done at Saltzgiver's Art and Antique Store, 223 North Second street. There is no case to which this is not applicable. Whether it be a stand frame you are seeking or the most appropriate molding for are, little etching you will find it there. And you will also receive exition. Let me add that a machine made frame is characterless when made frame is characterless when friends or in the stores, and you'll find that my statement holds true.

ANCY—if you can—a store where making a sale is a matter of secsionary importance. Such establishments are gradually coming into existence and, in a not far distant day, we hope their name will be Legion. Take for instance our own Army and Navy Shoe Store in Court street, where a satisfied customer is placed before a mere, single sale. Never, under any circumstances, would their expert salesmen persuade you to buy shoes not exactly suited to your peculiar needs. Rather, they would urge you to refrain from purchasing footwear not fitting properly in every respect, extending every effort to meet your individual difficulty for your permarent satisfaction is the only result profitable to them.

Wien Santa Claus tries best to make some particularly good little boy particularly happy, do you know what he does? Hopping into his time-honored sleigh and brightly cracking his whip, he dashes off to his favorite branch house, the Marianne Toy Shop. And there with wisdom and care he choses a gift from the bewildering assortment. Aeroplanes, tanks, horses, and balls, to say nothing of ships, horns, soldiers, swords and guns of every description and sort await his selection. Then too, there are well-equipped tool chests and cunning "movie men" composed of separate wooden parts—you'll have to ask to see them—just the thing for the healthy, lively young lad. Oh, Sarta Claus knows where to go, all right, all right!

TASHION—or Paris if you choose—changes her mind most frequently.

ASHION—or Paris if you choose—changes her mind most frequently.

Just at present, her latest whim in the realm of coats, is the polo coat in either full or three-quarter length. Take a little bit of camels' hair cloth, tailor it simply along superb, sporting lines and jountily wear it to matinee or shop. The results are most satisfying. That the polo coat has come into its own, there is not a vestige of doubt. Spring will find it a popular favorite. Already the Cloak Shop in the Penn-Harris building, is showing an advance lot of striking spring models, quickly seized by eager costumers almost as soon as they appear on the racks.

A Gift that reflects the donor's Personality

Few things add more to the setting of a well-appoint-ed room than the proper lamp or the use of the proper lighting fixtures in the decorative scheme. In making your Christmas Shopping List add a lamp for those "newlyweds" to whom you want to give something that will reflect your own good taste.

Harrisburg Husbands! A Word of Advice

You're wondering what to give your wife or daughter for Christmas. Or if you're not it's time you were. It's only a month distant.

There are many items you may select: a piece of jewelry; some books; a desk set, a bag-but why not give her what she really wants? There never was a time a woman didn't want something in apparel. That's what is closest to her heart.

You can come in here and actually select the merchandise you want-from a modest blouse to a sumptuous fur coat. My staff will be glad to advise with you. Or you can purchase a Gift Bond for any amount you care to invest. Then the recipient can select what she prefers from my stock. These Gift Bonds will be ready for distribution Tuesday.

Last year many men did their Christmas shopping here. This year I want twice as many.
