PAUL ALTHOUSE COMING TO CITY

Evelyn Essick to Accompany American Tenor at Concert January 22

PAUL ALTHOUSE

Final arrangements have just been completed for one of the finest musical concerts booked for this season. People of Harrisburg will again have an opportunity to hear one of America's best tenors, Paul Althouse, who will be the headline of an unusual musical program to be rendered at the Chestnut Street Auditorium, Thursday evening, January 22.

Miss Evelyn Essick, vocal teacher, will herself accompany the artist, and will be entirely responsible for this splendid addition to the musical events already in store for the music lovers of Harrisburg. Miss Essick is the daughter of William S. Essick, of this city, and while her father has resided here for more than 11 years, Miss Essick came from Reading only two years ago. She still maintains her studio at Reading, but is gradually becoming established in Harrisburg. She is a member of the Wednesday Club of this city at other musical associations.

Mr. Althouse frankly states that he owes his success to his first teacher, Miss Essick, who encouraged him from the time that he was a boy soprano, only six years ago. She secured a place for him in church choir and laid the foundation for his sound musicianship.

Mr. Althouse is now one of the leading members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, with which organization he has been associated for over six years. In addition to operatic triumphs, Paul Althouse has been heard in concert in practically every important city of the United States. He has appeared with the New York Symphony Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic and many other of the leading orchestras of the country.

The coming concert is the result of a chat the past summer when Mr. Althouse dropped in to Miss Essick's studio for a visit and friendly rehearsal.

KANSAS READY TO AID PEOPLE

Governor Allen Issues Statement Concerning the Coal Crisis

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 28.—Kansas has been brought to the point of using all its power to protect the people whose suffering would be unendurable unless relief was afforded from the emergency brought about by the coal strike, Governor Henry J. Allen announces in a formal statement.

Declaring that it was the duty of the Governor to protect the people whose welfare was dependent upon it, he asserted that he would use the power of the state for one purpose only to relieve the coal famine and to protect the lives of those engaged in carrying out this effort.

The Governor declared that people were responding willingly to his appeal for volunteers to work the Kansas mines. He said the people realized that it was not a strike-breaking enterprise.

Every department of human life is bound up in this issue," the statement continued. "Every industry and private occupation which government is organized to support is affected by it and the challenge of those who would bring upon us this catastrophe a challenge to government."

So far as Kansas is concerned, the government is going to accept the challenge. For this sole purpose we are asking for volunteers whose services we will accept as rapidly as mining operations can be increased. The duty to which these men are volunteering is hard labor, but they are accepting it willingly out of their recognition of a call as patriotic as any that has brought men into service. It is the age-old obligation of just government to protect the innocent against the ruthless quarrels in the making of which we had part."

"But once and for all," the statement concluded, "it must be understood that the powers of the state now summoned into action for the protection of its people, are above and beyond those of any association or organization, whether of capital or individuals."

Rivers and Harbors Must Elect President

New York, Nov. 28.—After fourteen years as the active head of the organization—one year as chairman of the executive committee and thirteen years as president—Senator Ransdell has notified the officers and members of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress that he will retire at the close of his present term. As he declares that his decision is definite and final, one of the important matters before the fifteenth convention which meets in this city in December will be the selection of his successor. Mr. Ransdell has served twenty years in Congress, fourteen years in the House and six in the Senate, and during all that time he has been an insistent, consistent and persistent advocate of the development and utilization of waterways for transportation. He has spoken in behalf of waterways from the Atlantic to the Gulf, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. It was due to a suggestion made by him in a speech at Cincinnati in 1905 that the National

Rivers and Harbors Congress, which had been organized in Baltimore in 1901, was reorganized and began the activities which have been continued ever since.
