If I only had some Sloan's Liniment!" How often you've said that! And then, when the rheumatic twinge subsided—after hours of suffering—you forgot it! Don't do it again—get a bottle to-day 'for possible use to-night! A sudden attack may come on—sclatica, lumbago, sore muscles, stiff joints, reuralgia, the pains and aches resulting from exposure. You'll soon relieve it with Sloan's, the liniment that penetrates without rubbing.

38 years' leadership. Clean, economical. Three sizes—35c, 70c, $1.40. AM the greatest veteran of them all. I was through the first Red Cross campaign or the Main street sector, through the second and third campaigns on the Chest-nut avenue front, and in successive campaigns in the union passenger station region. I was in all important "Y" campaigns, seeing service or every important corner in my town; I have shaken a wicked rolled-oats box in front of every prominent citizen, from the mayor down to the poundmaster, in the Salvation Army drives on the doughnut sector, and in behalf of the "Y. W." have been ogied by three preachers, four aldermen, seven hundred soda-fountain cicreks, and a few thousand professional mashers. Other war activities included campaigning for the Irish societies.

I am to my plaint; I am associated in the eyes of my entire town with tags. My presence at a dance is a signal for everybody to cross to the other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an old friend, and other side of the room; I approach on the street an ol

I am the patriotic tagger. I have smiled upon the president of the first national bank and hung a tag on his neat lapel, to receive for my pains six cents—the extent of his pocket; I have, by sheer weight of pocket; I have, by sheer weight of logic and oratory, extracted from a shoe clerk the dollar that was to have been transformed that evening into roses for little Mamie, and from the porter at the station have separated the nickel tip he received from the traveling man from Omaha.

And—probably in the aggregate of eight times—I have had the entire population of my town pass to the

GERMANY SEES NEW HOPE IN U.S. TREATY REFUSAL

Foreign Office Believes Situation Would Alter Her Obligations

HOMER L. FERGUSON

That Americans must replace the punch of the highball with the punch of something far more worthy and that they must hurry to find a substitute for the saloon, was what Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding Company, told delegates to the industrial section of the international Y. M. C. A. convention. "Of course the saloon was a good thing to get rid of," he said, "but no matter what they say about the baneful influence of the saloon, it was a place where of the saloon, it was a place where there was cheerfulness and where men were warmly welcomed.
