Capture of Bandit Reads Like Wild West Story of Ancient Times

By Ansociated Press By Ansociated Press Douglas, Wyo., Dec. 3.—The cap-ture yesterday of William Carliste, famous train robber and bandit, is revealed to-day as one of the mossi dramatic "wild west stories" in re-cent years. His trail had been fol-lowed this week through a blind-ing snowstorm and blizzard in which the posses had to give up their horses and proceed on foot. Although shot through one lung when captured, doctors said to-day they believe he will recover. When captured the outlaw made no effort to conceal his identity. He was strapped to a pack horse and carried down the mountain. He on a Los Angeles Limited on Novem-

TRAIN WOUNDED MEN The Federal Board of Vocational Education is taking every step to prevent soldiers of Pennsylvania and other states, disabled during the world war, from becoming a charge on the community. Almost 1,300 men from this state have been plac-ed in various educational institu-tions and training places. Disabled Harrisburg soldiers who are now receiving the benefits of this training include: Jesse L. Daron, at Carnegie Institute; David R. Runkle, at Pennsylvania State College; Belmar Lantz, at Carnegie Institute; Charles B. Ruch, at Wil-liamson Trade School; Charles W. Ridway, at Philadelphia Trade School, and Lee Edward White, at Harrisburg Light and Power Com-pany.

URGES ARTILLERY

URGES ARTULIERY By Associated Press Washington, Déc. 3.—Major Gen-eral William J. Snow, chief of field artillery, recommended in his an-nual report made public to-day that his office be made permanent and that artillery units be organized into brigades for training purposes. Main-tenance of adequate firing centers and the instruction officers in special schools and colleges was also recom-mended. Attached to the document is a report made by a special board appointed by General Pershing in France, which concurred in General Snow's recommendations.

Kills 6-Year-Old Boy

New York, Dec. 2.—Secret serv-ice agents frustrated a plot to as-sassinate William Howard Taft when he was President of the United States. It was revealed when Pas-quale. Pignuola, agent of the Depart-ment of Justice, took the witness stand in the United States Court to defend himself against charges of grafting in the administration of the prohibition enforcement laws. When relating some of the things's he had done to help the government, Pignuola made known that an an-archistic attempt on the life of Pres-ident Taft had been defeated. "I worked on the conspiracy to kill President Taft when he was Chief Executive," declared Pignuola.
