Jewel Maidens Sing at Court in Fairyland

The sale of seats for the operetta, "Cinderella," which will be given at the Orpheum theater Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee, certainly proves that Harrisburgers believe it will be a creditable production and proves also that the work of the Sunshine Society is of interest to the community. The funds raised at this time by the Sunshiners will be used for the coming two years in the work of uplift among cripples, shut-ins and the unfortunates.

The work of the many singers and dancers is a revelation to those privileged to attend rehearsals. The Jewel Maidens sing the Jewel songs to the Queen and are supposed to deck her with jewels. They are: Minerva Butorff, Jennie Beach, Ellen Harris, Margaret Schredley, Josephine Roberts, Margaret Kuesel.

Visiting the Shops with Adele

Did you ever stop to think that the difference in price between the best shoes and the worst is not so great as it used to be. No, but the difference in quality is just as great as ever. Therefore, one must beware in purchasing shoes, lest one pays a large sum for an inferior grade. At one time the price was the indication of the quality. But that day has passed—although not forever, we hope. Just the same, conditions are such at present that it behooves us to buy our shoes at a thoroughly reliable shop where we are sure to obtain footwear that is all it is represented to be.

Woman's love for pretty clothes is as old as Nature. And who can blame her for delighting in lovely garments? No one who sees her in them, I'm sure. An attractive woman, handsomely gowned is a joy forever. And many a homely woman finds careful dressing a valuable asset. Perhaps Mildy's love of adornment has found its best expression in the charming gowns at the Cloos Shop. Take, for instance, the stunning afternoon gown of black charmeuse, with three-quarter sleeves—the very latest thing, you know—effectively, simple blouse, wide girdle, and overskirt heavily embroidered in silk and braided in gold.

Are you one of the many thousands of husbands who are secretly wondering what to get her for Christmas? It is a perplexing question, isn't it? Of course, there are just hundreds of things that you might select, but—what does she want most of all? Now, listen to me. There are some things that suit some women and some things that suit others, but the one thing guaranteed to please any woman is an electrical labor-saving device or appliance. Give her something electrical, and, surest thing you know, she'll be happy as a lark.

Take, for instance, any one of the following appliances I saw yesterday at the Daphin Electrical Supplies Company, 434 Market street: A vacuum cleaner, a valveless percolator, an electric iron, a boudoir set, including iron, curling tongs and stand; a toaster, teapot, stove, boudoir lamp, or any one of a bewildering assortment of other interesting articles. Would she be pleased? Well, try and see!

"Thank goodness, my gift problem is all solved," gaily announced one of my friends as she breezed into my office several days ago. "I hit upon just the dandiest scheme by which I can please everyone with the minimum amount of effort. You know how I detest Christmas shopping," she continued. "And you know how hard it is to find gifts that are sure to satisfy either the giver or the person for whom they are intended. Well, naturally, I want to give people something that they will really cherish and treasure indefinitely, and I believe I've found the very thing. I'm going to have Roshon, the Market street photographer, take my photograph. His portraits are wonderful, really they are, and they are the one thing I can give my friends that they can't buy for themselves."

My message to the ex-service men and women of Harrisburg— JOIN THE AMERICAN LEGION and retain your 100 per cent. Americanism. WE are proud of Harrisburg's patriotic 4,000— YOU should be equally proud to enjoy the privilege and distinction of being enrolled in this organization.

Betty Patterson, Mary Francis Rockefeller. It's a beautiful dance. The Moonbeams, who are Lucille Beard, Pauline Salkin, Margaret Hann, Mary Harris, Mary Fager, Mabel Thompson, Mary Edwards and Florence Frank, execute graceful steps as they glide about with the moon fairy, who is "Moonglo." Miss Katharine Stamm with fairies, sprites, flowers, birds and many Fairyland characters, one may easily forget the troubles of this workaday world and go along to Fairyland for a short visit. Tickets may be procured at the boxoffice of the Orpheum theater.

A Gift Bond Settles So Many Problems. When you think of the quantity of useless junk which changes hands at Christmas it is enough to tempt one to become a spug, said spug being one who has forever foresworn the Christmas present habit. People do buy such meaningless things. But there's nothing useless about something to wear. I never yet have met a woman who couldn't use something more in the way of apparel. And it's absolutely sure to be appreciated if it's selected by the recipient. A Gift Bond meets every phase of the Christmas problem. Buy a Mary Sachs bond for any amount your prefer: mail it: and the recipient not only will enjoy her gift but she'll also respect your common sense.
