Draft Men Protest Insult by Judge Rogers

Insult by Judge Rogers

Philadelphia. Dec. 11.—Protest by selective service men against what they call the insult applied to them by Judge Joseph P. Rogers crystallized yesterday in an official statement by Major William G. Murdock, declaring that Rogers' remarks "seemingly stamp him as a man of such temperament as to be unfit for judicial duties."

Judge Rogers on Tuesday recalled a witness who had testified against a crooked Vare cop and told him he had "no use" for drafted men. When the judge was asked about it yesterday he tried to dismiss it in a four-word interview: "Rats, bunk, nonsense, tommyrot."

Before Murdock went to the defense of service men another member of the American Legion, H. C. Carroll, post historian of Post No. 37. and former sergeant in the 215th Infantry, announced that he will make formal complaint against the judge to Lieutenant Colonel Franklin D'Olier, head of the American Legion.
