Barred From Jobs

Fifty-nine sections, comprising all of the first and second articles and 15 of the sections of the third article of the Pennsylvania Constitution, of a dozen which were checked from the text of the document of 1873, were tentatively passed by the State Constitutional Revision Commission in its first session...

Another important amendment would permit the State to do its own thing. There was no discussion on that point or on the removal of the requirement that the Governor should pass upon multitudinous matters, more or less of which have been removed by statute, but a few of which remain to distract from the big things of the office.

Amendment of Section 13 of Article II so that it not apply to conflict with Section 18 of Article XVIII was effected by Hampton L. Carson, former attorney general, who pointed out that the former might interfere with the provision in Article XVIII to give adequate compensation for judges.

Commission Rejected The amendment was referred back to committee, as were amendments relative to special commissions, the limitations of investment trust funds and regulation of State ownership by Judge Gordon.

James H. Reed, Allegheny, raised the question on the section relative to powers of special commissions in advisory and municipal affairs, whether it would not interfere with the Carnegie Library bequests in Pittsburgh, and Mayor Sulzberger, Philadelphia, asked what effect might be on the Philadelphia Board of City Trusts.

Another proposition referred back was to eliminate the section relative to limitations on power of investment of trust funds. Judge Reed held that investments in stocks should not be permitted, but that investments in bonds might be considered desirable.

Ex-Speaker George E. Alter, Allegheny, who handled the amendments and reports of sections recommended to be unchanged as acting chairman of Committee No. 1 in reply to Ex-Judge Sulzberger, of Philadelphia, on the latter's suggestion that the prohibition of legislators accepting places of profit during their term of office be amended to "presumed too much on the frailty of legislators."

Elimination of the section relative to special inspection of merchandise was agreed to and a dozen more sections of Article III were then accepted as they stand.

When the proposed new section for classification of counties and municipalities came up it was sent back to committee for further consideration of the clause relative to general laws.

The first section of Article 6 pertaining to the executive caused a discussion because of inclusion in executive department of heads of departments created by the Legislature, but it was finally adopted.

All sections relative to the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs were referred back to committee after Messrs. Carson, Alter and Fisher had expressed views as to the necessity of continuing the secretary an elective officer, summarizing recent legislative proposals on the subject.

When the section relative to gubernatorial messages to the Legislature and the executive power over appropriations came up they were referred back to committee to consider in connection with the budget plan. Judge Reed said that he did not know the minds of the members on the subject, but thought that it should be discussed, while Gifford Pinchot, Pike, moved that the drafts pertaining to the budget system in the proposed New York constitution be prepared for the members to study.

The Commission adjourned until noon of January 6. It has finished preliminary action on the first four articles, a number of sections having been referred back, while several will remain as they are.

First steps to provide the counties, cities and boroughs of the State with a greater measure of the "home rule" which they have been seeking at successive sessions of the Legislature, will probably be taken before the State Constitutional Commission rises for the Christmas vacation to-day.

John P. Connelly, city solicitor of Philadelphia, has raised the question whether one of the prohibitions of special legislation is valid by county and city local affairs might not clash with the proposed classification of counties and municipalities and Judge Reed held that...

KIWANIS CLUB BUYS MANY TOYS

Contribute to Mission; Plans Big Party for the Youngsters

Elwood J. Turner, of Chester, district governor of the Kiwanis Clubs of Pennsylvania, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Harrisburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Harris to-day.

The attendance prize was won by Daniel E. Lucas, who refused to tell what it was. Eli M. Simon, of the Closs Shop, presented the gift. Silent boosts for the day were in the shape of bill folders presented by the Keystone Motor Company, and calendars by D. E. Lucas.

Announcement was made that next Wednesday afternoon the Kiwanis, Rotary and Motor Clubs, and the Chamber of Commerce would give a Christmas party to 250 children from the Industrial Home, Sylvan Heights Orphanage, and the Nursery Home. Dinners will be served at each home with a special chef representing the clubs in charge, after which motors will take the youngsters to the Marjorie Hotel for a special performance, and later each child will receive a Christmas present before being taken back home.

BLOOD INFUSION FAILS TO SAVE LIFE

the hospital decided on blood transfusion as a method of saving the man's life and in late July sounded an appeal for volunteers.

At the time of the hospital's appeal for volunteers, the man had become so weak that his heart action had become so faint that it could scarcely be heard. He had gradually grown worse from the time of his admission and his complexion had taken on a marble tint.

Harry H. Buch, 314 Cumberland street, an overseas soldier, was selected and blood was on two occasions transferred from his veins into those of Peffley. For a time the sick man's condition improved, but he has grown much worse within the past several weeks.

Peffley is survived by his wife, Mrs. Susan E. Peffley; one son, Howard, and his aged mother, Mrs. Ellen P. Peffley, together with three brothers and one sister. He was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose and of Lodge 174, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at 2000 North Fifth street, conducted by the Rev. Harvey Kiser, father and son, who will take the body to Halifax for burial on Sunday.

Sloan's Liniment NEVER FAILS ME. Any man or woman who keeps it handy will tell you that same thing. ESPECIALLY those frequently attacked by rheumatic twinges. A counter-irritant, Sloan's Liniment scatters rheumatism and penetrates without rubbing to the affected part, soon relieving the ache and pain.

THE HOUSEWIVES' COLUMN. When a group of women get together now-a-days, the topic invariably centers on—not the children—nor husbands—nor the servant problem—But the sugar shortage, and, right at the psychological moment, white syrup comes to the fore.

You Can Overcome the Sugar Shortage with GOLDEN CROWN WHITE SYRUP. Remember it has a RED LABEL.

---it Takes the Place of Sugar---in your cooking and baking—in tea or coffee—in cereals and fruit at breakfast time—and in making good home-made candies, etc.

GOLDEN CROWN WHITE SYRUP (red label) is being used and endorsed by many housewives, because it is practically neutral in flavor—its superior quality and purity make the addition of a foreign flavor unnecessary.

GOLDEN CROWN WHITE SYRUP is clear, very sweet and heavy bodied—it will not affect the natural taste or appearance of anything in which it is used. If you desire it flavored, just add any household flavoring extract of your preference.

BUY A CAN FROM YOUR GROCER TODAY. GOLDEN CROWN WHITE SYRUP (Red Label) is sold in several convenient sizes, but only in sanitary cans, and the tops can easily be pried open and replaced while the contents are being used.

SURELY YOU'LL BAKE COOKIES FOR THE HOLIDAYS. Place in a mixing bowl: 1 cup of Golden Crown White Syrup, 1/2 cup of shortening, 1/2 cup of water, 2 tablespoons of cocoa, 1 tablespoon of cinnamon, 1 teaspoon of ginger, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 2 1/2 to 3 cups of flour.

BAKED APPLES IN SUGAR-SAVING SYRUP. Select firm, smooth-skinned apples; wash carefully and remove the core. Fill the cavity with raisins or nuts and raisins. Place in a pan, add a small amount of water, cover and simmer on top of the stove for 10 minutes. Add Golden Crown White Syrup, a tablespoonful to each apple, place in oven and bake until tender. Serve cold with cream or warm, with a foamy sauce.

NUT COOKIES. Place in a mixing bowl: 1 cup of Golden Crown White Syrup, 1/2 cup of shortening, 1/2 cup of finely chopped nuts, 1/2 cup of milk or water, 1 teaspoon of nutmeg, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 4 to 5 cups of flour.
