FINDS SLAYER'S PARTNER GUILTY

Waynesboro Burglar Is Convicted With Members of Family at His Side

Waynesboro, Pa., Dec. 19.—Sitting near his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Martz, of Waynesboro, and beside Mrs. Florence Craft, now of Baltimore but formerly of this town, Irvin Martz, charged with burglary in connection with the blowing of a number of safes in Frederick last October, heard a verdict in Frederick court return a verdict of guilt against him.

Martz, alleged yeoman, was a companion of Clarence Wallace, who was shot and killed a few days ago by detectives in Santa Barbara, Cal., while resisting arrest.

The courtroom was packed with people from every section of the county, and as the jury filed in with a verdict, Judge Worthington warned against a demonstration.

When the foreman said "Guilty," Mrs. Martz, with whom Wallace and Martz boarded and who testified for the latter, swooned.

The trial attracted the largest crowd since the famous Pittiner murder case. The parents of the prisoner, the latter's two sisters and brother and Mrs. Martz were among the early arrivals. The prisoner, in charge of Deputy Sheriff Benjamin Shaw, took a seat beside his parents and the family held a whispered conversation until the case was called.

Before the jury was empaneled former State Attorney Samuel A. Lewis, counsel for the prisoner, asked that the case be removed to another county, claiming that on account of public sentiment against him, the accused could not have a fair trial in this county. The motion was overruled and Lewis then asked that the prosecution be stopped on the ground that the defendant furnished information from which Wallace had been located in Santa Barbara, and killed.

The court denied this motion, but gave the defense the right to renew the motion in the event Martz was found guilty.

The conviction of Martz and the death of Wallace constitute the final chapter of one of the boldest robberies ever committed in Frederick, followed by the murder of Leo M. Creager.

CHINESE BIBLE NOW COMPLETE

Scriptures Translated Into Mandarin Colloquial; Work Occupied 25 Years

Efforts of the Chinese and foreign translators who have for 25 years toiled to interpret the Holy Scriptures into the Chinese language, have been repaid at last by the completion of the arduous task. The "Revised Mandarin Bible," as it will be known, will be offered to a monstrous public, as over one-fourth of the world's inhabitants live in the Republic of China, which has approximately four times as many people under its five-barred rainbow flag as live under the Stars and Stripes.

The completion of the "Revised Mandarin Bible" is welcomed as a milestone in Chinese missionary work, as its need has long been felt. The work was done by the ablest missionary linguists in collaboration with Chinese scholars, with the result that the translation is considered one of the most perfect literary productions in the "Pu-tung hwa," as they say in China.

Totalling the time consumed by the translation committee it has been figured that several hours were spent on each verse. And there are 31,175 verses in the Bible!

Fourfold After Twenty-one Years.

The Rev. Chauncey Goodrich, D. D., Litt. D., L. H. D., the chairman of the translation committee, now in his 83d year, has continued in the work from the very beginning, two of his colleagues passing away years before the task was completed, and is on his way homeward with his first furlough in 21 years.

Dr. Goodrich, the venerable sinologue who has contributed so much of his time and scholarship to this monumental work, says: "During these years of toil together we have learned what to us has been a wonder and a great gladness—that the Mandarin colloquial is a language worthy to stand alongside the great languages of the world. Unlike the dialects of Southeast China, it is written; and under the hands of a master, both for prose or poetry, is nearly equal to all demands that might be made upon it.

"I wish to give thanks for a Bible so susceptible of being translated. To me it has been a constant marvel that the Bible, as has now been rendered, both in the classical style and in the Mandarin colloquial, is so near an approach to the original languages of the Scriptures. Just here we may be grateful that the Bible is almost free from abstract terms, so foreign to the genius of the Chinese tongue."

The work of the translation has cost the Bible Societies $132,000 without counting additional amounts paid by missionary societies in salaries to their missionary translators assigned to this work.
