The legislation as agreed upon by the subcommittee, Senator Wads-worth said, is completed now and bears no resemblance to the Army reorganization bil drafted by the general staff and transmitted to the House and Senate Military Commit-tee by Secretary Baker. While vari-ous minor details of the plan remain to be worked out, the committee's present agreement, Senator Wads-worth said, calls for a permanent standing peace army of 280,000, al-though the committee may possibly reduce this number to the final draft.

ers, the conditions of cattle, sheep, horses and other live stock is un-usually good and as a rule animals are going into winter quar ers in fine shape. In counties where hog cholera pre-vails the State has taken steps to restrict shipments and movements attending sales, while many farmers started butchering earlier than usual. Some county reports are that farm-ers are holding hogs because of prices and others are to the effect that there has been a marked in-crease in interest in sheep raising. Plans for extension of the number of State game preserves, both State-owned and auxiliary, will be taken at the meeting of the State Game Com-mission on January S. It is possible that requests for additional lands on State forest reserves may be asked and several tracts will be bught outright from the hunters' license revenue and established as preserves. Applications for creation of two auxiliary reserves in Bucks county and one in Butler are pending. The game preserves will be inspected this winter by game officials from New York and other states. L. H. superintendent in Crawford county, has resigned. Advocates of a budget system for the State of Pennsylvania intend to seek the views of Governor William C. Sproul and Auditor General Charles A. Snyder before the mem-bers of the State Constitutional Re-vision Commission reassemble in this city. Officials of various states and of the large cities are being asked to present data, while a comprehensive study is understood to be under way at the National capital for one of the members. Making of a budget for the State of Pennsylvania now would be framing one of $50,000,000 a year if allowances for the mainte-nance of the charitable and educa-tional institutions were to be in-cluded. One of the subjects upon which

Dee of the subjects upon which some data is also being prepared for the commission is taxaiton of coal and other natural resources. It is regarded as pretty certain that a change in the taxaiton of either kind of coal sold in or out of the State will be recommended, while the graded tax will also be introduced. It seems now to be certain that the State Insurance Fund Board will name an assistant manager who lives in Pennsylvania. John Guy Bingaman, of Dalmatia, Northumberland county, a claim adjuster with the State Insurance Fund Roard will years, is being strongly urged for the place. There are half a dozen applicants and Bingaman seems to have very influential backing.
The Public Service Commission will hold its final arguments for the place. There are half a dozen applicants and among the cases listed is the protest of the Pittsburgh for opening street sacross an inclined plane. The question is an unusual one and will have important bearing upon street openings where a grade crossing will be created.

Service Sunday For Cleofonte Campanini

Cheofonce Campanini Chicago, Pec. 22.—Hundreds of persons were turned away from the auditorium theater yesterday when, with every seat occupied, the velvet curtains were drawn aside revealing the casket containing the body of Cleofonte Campanini, director of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. There was a lighted taper at either end of the casket which was adorn-ed with a coverlet of violets. A solid bank of flowers across the stage, formed the, background. There was no eulogy, only music. No one appeared on the stage, but from the wings there came melo-dies from an orchestra and from Alessandro Bonci and 'Rosa Raisa. The orchestra pit was filled with flowers, while on the conductor's stand lay Campanini's baton and the score of his favorite opera, "Fal-stanf." Religious services were held this morning at Holy Name cathedral.
