

BLIND GIRL IS CURED BY HICKSON

count of her experiences, she appeared in St. John's Episcopal Church, bandages removed from her eyes and was able to tell the time from her grandfather's watch.

The little girl, a victim of infantile paralysis, her head always bowed and eyes covered with a protecting shield, unable to walk without assistance, has been a familiar and pathetic figure to the parishioners of St. John's, and her appearance in church on Sunday night, walking unassisted to the chancel, her eyes unassisted and exposed to the glare of the electric light, caused a sensation.

TOYS ENOUGH TO FILL ALL WANTS

were everywhere. Miss Margaret Ringland and Miss Katherine Kelley emerged occasionally from the pile to take breath or catch a bite to eat. All the rest of the time they were struggling to sort and tie and mark the ever-increasing inundation of toys, toys, which were carried in, mailed in, sent in and all but thrown into the rooms of the Toy Mission.
