The Associated Aid Wants to Miss No Person in Need

THE Associated Aid Societies, a big charitable organization in the city, to-day issued this Christmas message in a final appeal to the public that no person be missed in its efforts to supply Yuletide spirit to all the homes of the needy to-morrow.

"The Spirit of Christmas and 'Peace, Good Will' is in the air. The season is a happy one for many but our thoughts turn to the neglected children, the sick, aged, lonely, unfortunate of our city; whose poverty and misfortune are unaccounted and felt more keenly because of the joyfulness of the holiday.

"We want to feel that at Christmas no child or needy one is without shoes, warm clothing and a touch of Christmas cheer. And remembering that the work of the Associated Aid Societies is carried on entirely by voluntary contributions, you will realize the urgent need must be met so that we may quickly, intelligently and sympathetically help all who need us.

"We give the personal friendly touch which you would render had you the time. 'May we count on your Christmas gift, large or small—for 'Some one'?"
