When a Girl Marries

A New, Romantic Serial Dealing with the Absorbing Problem of a Girl Wife

Chapter CCLXXXVI. With a feeling of relief which even my hostess couldn't have...

Virginia, with all the good will in the world toward two youngsters...

It was an ugly tangle and I could not think my way out. The only thing to do was to talk it over with Jim...

As I arrived at this conclusion, the car came to an abrupt stop. A moment later, Lyons opened the door and addressed me respectfully...

"No telephone here," I commented. "You can't run alone a bit, so I can call Mr. Harrison and explain..."

"The engine stopped dead," explained Lyons. "It will take me half an hour at least to fix her and it's six now, with only half way to the city..."

"I had to make a detour so we ain't near no inn nor anywhere that would be having a telephone. I'll be quick as can be and soon as I make the main road again, I'll find a phone..."

The delay was just about as Lyons had foretold. It was all of half-past six when we reached a little inn and I put through the call for Jim's office...

"I had just finished my soup when Jim loomed suddenly in the doorway. He had a look of shrunken grayness which reminded me of Lane's appearance after he'd first seen Val..."

"The girls! You consider them before you do your husband. That's nice. Your husband arrives home, dead beat and has to eat a cold meal because he isn't important enough to have dinner delayed on his account..."

"I had just finished my soup when Jim loomed suddenly in the doorway. He had a look of shrunken grayness which reminded me of Lane's appearance after he'd first seen Val..."

LITTLE TALKS BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Love suffers many things. It must endure trial and change, bitterness and anger. These it may surmount.

Can love survive this? In the first days of bereavement when we long for the touch of a hand...

"No," I stammered. "I just want it. Won't you look?" "I've been looking all the while I scolded," replied Virginia...

"I'm really nowhere about, Anne," I sent Virginia to ask Bertha if she found it when she went through the linen...

Washington, Dec. 27.—A report reached the Shipping Board that a prominent New York shipping firm has offered to American ship owners the use of a submarine, which would meet outgoing vessels at the three-mile line with stores of liquor gathered at Bermuda and other handy ports.

It would also take for safe keeping from incoming ships what surplus of liquor might be left at the end of the voyage.

Just why a submarine should be necessary for this purpose is not made clear, but the Shipping Board believes the report to be true.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Federal agents, health authorities and police in many cities in the east were alerted today to look for traffic in whisky.

The police received word by telephone that rumors of manufacture of contraband were exciting the 1,400 residents of the Island, which is part of the Bronx borough of New York city.

In recent raids on the mainland Bronx detectives and revenue officers have found 21 barrels of illicit whisky. Eighteen were found in one abandoned barn and three in another.

Hundreds of people are ill in Brooklyn as the result of drinking wood alcohol concoctions and many have required hospital treatment. United States Attorney Ross, of the Brooklyn district announced today that he had received several hundred letters from relatives of men who have been poisoned. As a result he conferred with revenue officers regarding prosecutions.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 27.—Nine new victims of wood alcohol poisoning were in Cleveland hospitals today, raising the week's total of sufferers from drinking the whisky substitute to twenty-four. In the same period three deaths have been attributed to wood or denatured alcohol poisoning.

Vida Ozanic is under arrest today charged with murder and is said by Sheriff Hanratty to have confessed shooting Nicholas Ovidich, 20, of West Park a boarder, following the striking of home-made whisky and a fight at a Christmas day celebration. Ovidich's body was found late yesterday.

Baltimore, Dec. 27.—Can 32 cases of liquor be poured down a rainspout, collected and carried off without attracting any one's attention? That is what must have happened yesterday, according to Bob D. Robinson, who reported to the police last night the theft of that amount of the fluid, valued at $387.50.

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 27.—Alex Perry, proprietor of the American House in Chicopee Falls, is today under arrest. It was said he had left the city and a search for him had not revealed his whereabouts.

WOMAN REFUSED NEW TRIAL ON SCOLD CHARGE

Five Additional Opinions Are Handed Down by Judge S. J. M. McCarrell

Katherine McLaughlin, convicted on a charge of being a common scold, was refused a new trial today by Judge S. J. M. McCarrell in an opinion filed at the office of Prothonotary Charles E. Pass. The woman, it is alleged, caused disturbances in the vicinity of Sixth and Wisconsin streets, neighbors testifying at the recent trial in criminal court.

Judge McCarrell also handed down five other opinions refusing new trials in two more criminal and two civil actions and dismissed an application for maintenance.

Sarah Heller charged with felonious entry and larceny, and Charles Cranford, charged with fraudulently making a written instrument, were refused new trials.

Mary King, who applied for support, suing William King, was refused a new trial. Judge McCarrell ruled that as there was no evidence of a marriage ceremony or of an agreement forming a marriage relation King was not liable for maintenance even though the couple had lived together.

Two civil court verdicts for almost $500 in favor of Ida J. Fackler in slander suits against John N. and May Heck, were sustained by Judge McCarrell, who refused new trials; while in a civil court action between Mary Smith et al. vs. Hiram Troutman, involving settlement of a judgment on which there had been an execution and the sheriff held the money, the opinion ruled against a new trial. The verdict had been returned in favor of the plaintiff.
