A NEW ROMANCE OF AMERICAN LIFE

CHAPTER VI.
(Copyright, 1919, Star Company)

Hugh Rodney had been away for four months.
At first Ruth missed him sadly, watching eagerly for mail from him. He wrote to her every day. In the beginning his letters were a source of excitement to the recipient.

loves her better and better all the time.
Ruth was silent. She did not know just what to say. Doris was certainly missing Hugh less than at first. Her silence startled the father.

Heinz Salesmen Are Celebrating 50th Year of Prosperous Business

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the H. J. Heinz Company in Pittsburgh is being celebrated in the Penn-Harris with a three-day conference of the salesmen whose territory includes Central Pennsylvania, Maryland and a part of West Virginia.
L. M. Mellus, manager of the district, called the convention, which met for its first session at 9 o'clock this morning.
