

The Cockney.

BY JOHN G. SAXE, YANKEE.

It was in my foreign travel, At a famous Flemish inn, That I met a stoutly person, With a very ruddy skin, And his hair was something sandy, And done in knotty curls, And was parted in the middle In the manner of a girl's.

He was clad in chequered trowsers. And his coat was of a sort To suggest a scanty pattern, It was bobbed so very short; And his cap was very little, Such as soldiers often use; And he wore a pair of gaiters, And extremely heavy shoes.

I addressed the man in English, And he answered in the same, Though he spoke it in a fashion That I thought a little lame; For the aspirate was missing Where the letter should have been ; But where'er it was'nt wanted He was sure to put it in !

When I spoke with admiration Of St. Peter's mighty dome, He remarked, "'Tis really nothing To the sights we 'ave at 'ome!" And declared upon his honor-Though, of course, 'twas very queer-Il doubted if the Romans 'Ad the hart of making beer.

Then he talked of other countries, And he said that he had heard That the Hamericans spoke Hinglish, But he deemed it quite habsurd; Yet he felt the deepest hinterest In the missionary work, And would like to know if Georgia Was in Boston or New York!

When I left the man in gaiters, He was grambling o'er his gin At the charges of the bostess Of that famous Flemish inn. And he looked a very Briton. (So, methicks I see him still,) As he pocketed the candle That was mentioned in the bill!

Sensation Sermon.

A young divine of this city, noted for abuses of the day, on Sunday morning Butcher. treated his congregation to what might come under the head of a "sensation sermon." The tenor of the subject was the CHEAP PICTURES hypocrisy of the human heart. After some general observations on this head, he startled his hearers with a few special points and illustrations. Referring to the male portion of the community, he boldly male portion of the community, he boldly asserted that "one-half of the men of today were fools, and the other half knaves;' that while professing friendship, and shaking hands with one hand, they would even throttle you with the other. Turning his attention to the ladies, he reprehended the babit of one class who went to hended the babit of one class who went to is divided into twenty shares of $200 each, church for no other purpose than to see The income of the real estate is paying a fair the latest phase of Fashion.
