

THRILLING TAYL.

[Urban Spike of the Portland Transcript has commenced in that paper a tale which is about as sensible and true to nature--and a great deal funnier--than most of the stories of the Ledger stamp, which are now-a-days published. We extract the concluding chapter of the first number.]

CHAPTER V.

"As that a Ghost?"--OLD PLAY. We hevd said it was. And wuzt fur all, we say agin-- It was nite.

In the fore room of widdar Tuttle's house sat widdar Tuttle's only darter. To say that Serefeener Tuttle--such was her name--likewise her natur--was a lovely gal, would be several rows of apple trees away from meeting her case. Her raven tresses was redder--an rose, unexpressible eyes, teeth--grinders--tothers bein tuk nut--probably ivory. And to these the form of a syrop, and yu have wun of them gals kalkulated to make a man strike his father, kick his grandmother, brake the two commandments, an purty much everything else.

Leastw so thought Jecms Perkinss as he nelt at her fecht that cold, cold, cold nite. "Fairrest of the sects, loveliest wun," implored the youth "heer me swear?" She said she wud.

And he swore. "May I be whittled into kindlin wood," swore Jecms, "may I be used for stullin sarsengers, if I ever--"

Heer the strain caused by noelng was too much for Jecms' ornentionables. Thar was a rip, then a tare, and Jecms kerlummed.

A dolly paller snuffled the classic countenance of the lovely Serefeener. "O ghrasus!" she cried, an then swaned.

And then Jecms he swaned too. "Then--as of this had bin the signal--thunder bellered, lightning flashed, and the wind roared in the chimney."

"Jecms--Jecms," at length called Serefeener, in the gossamer tone of an expiring tree-toed, "this ar the lynn gal."

Even life at length returned wunst more to the dyin yuth. Fur a single moment he sot on the barth; gracefully as a Roman Scutier a foldin of his teggy did he gether his coteciale round his torod trows--surrefuldly did he gaze upon the face of his belored--and solemnly he re-plied-- "It can't be so--it's too eryl."

Hardly had he ceased speak--or more properly, skasedly had he dried up--when the door opened, and-- "Jecms--"

The sequill to this thrillin tail--"The Sosp Biler's Doom"--will be wrote as sane as the gifted orator fidee time an ideas.

Note by the Orator: "Truth nocked inter the middle of next week will rise agin--But eror bunged can't dew it."

RULES OF SELF-GOVERNMENT--Always sit next to the carver, if you can, at dinner.

Ask no woman her age. Be civil to all rich uncles and aunts. Never joke with a policeman.

Take no notes or gold with you to a fancy bazar--nothing but silver. Your oldest hat of course, for an evening party.

Don't play at chess with a widow. Never contradict a man who stutters. Put down the blind before you put on your wig.

Make friends with the steward on board of a steamer, there's no knowing how soon you may be placed in his power.

In every strange house it is well to inquire where the brandy is kept--otly think if you were taken ill in the night! Keep your own secrets. Tell no human being you dye your whiskers.

Never offend a butler--the wretch has too many chances of retaliation. Write not one letter more than you can help. The man who keeps up a large correspondence is a martyr, tied not to the stake, but to the post.

Wind up your conduct like your watch, once every day, examining minutely whether you are "fast or slow."

Printer Robbed.--The Utica Herald gives the following account of the robbery of a printer in that city: "A printer--as printers sometimes will--got very drunk the other night, and in the course of his wanderings brought up on Whitesboro street, where he took a short nap on the steps of a house. On awaking, he discovered that he had been robbed. His pockets had been picked and relieved of all their contents, consisting of a brass rule and a wooden comb. He left, thoroughly 'relieved out,' and thoroughly disgusted with a city where a man can not sleep on the sidewalk in safety."

Dr. Adam Clark, who had a strong aversion to pork, was called upon to say grace at a dinner, where the principal dish was roast pig. He is reported to have said: "O Lord, if thou canst bless under the gospel what thou didst curse under the law, bless this pig!"

"Mike, what kind of potatoes are those you are planting?" "Raw ones to be sure. The bouly poler! an' does yer honor think I would be afther plantin' bilid ones?"

"Ma, get down on your hands and knees a minute, please." Why, what on earth shall I do that for, pot? "Cause I want to draw a molebant."

Two Excellent Western Farms

FOR SALE--or will be exchanged for other property in Central Pennsylvania. The tract of 154 acres is on the south line of Warren county, Pa., with a post-office, mill, and school-house near. The other, near the west line of said county, contains 120 acres, a short distance from a good settlement. They are 30 miles south and south west of Des Moines, the Capital of the State, and about 8 from the line of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad. The land is rolling, of a good quality, and timber convenient. Indiana is the primary town. Persons desirous of making a purchase will make further inquiries at the Star & Chronicle office, Lewisburg--April 25.
